Researchers not sure

Leftover viruses: do they immunize or cause disease?

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Researchers say they suspect that the human body can retain a reservoir of viruses from old infections, but they're not sure whether the leftover viruses immunize the body or cause disease.

Dr. Robert W. Simpson of Rutgers University told an American Cancer Society science writers' seminar Monday that some virus particles tested in his laboratory and in the Soviet Union changed from inactive to infectious types that could survive for long times in a dormant state.

He said the findings have implications concerning the potential of common viruses — measles, mumps and influenza, for example — to persist in humans in latent forms following infections from or immunization with live viruses.

The existence of these transformed bits of viruses in humans is suspected but has not been proven.

There is a possibility that transformed particles from the common viruses might become activated decades after sickness or immunization, Simpson said.

They then could cause unrelated diseases such as cancer, multiple sclerosis or Parkinson's disease, he added.

However, he said, it is more likely that the viral particles serve a more positive purpose in maintaining immunity from future infections.

He said there was evidence of this in animal tests.

Talking about large-scale immunization programs, Simpson said, "We don't know whether we are instilling viruses in humans that can later cause exotic diseases.

"However, it's very clear that if we don't vaccinate, we will have a lot of fatal diseases that could kill millions. We must continue vaccinations by all means because the benefits are greater than the risks."

Simpson said vaccines made from killed viruses are unlikely to leave viral particles that may mutate and persist for long periods — as is suspected with live vaccines.

Examples of killed vaccines which are not suspect are the Salk polio vaccine and the one being considered for a nationwide immunization program against 1918 swine influenza, Simpson said.

Tornadoes kill 11, injure 220 in Arkansas and Mississippi

ALL SHE COULD SALVAGE

Katharie Coleman clings to all that's left of her possessions after a tornado slashed through Canton, Miss., Monday afternoon, killing five persons and injuring 150.

Hundreds are left homeless; twisters also strike Texas

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes have cut a swath of destruction across Arkansas and Mississippi, killing 11 persons, injuring more than 220 and leaving hundreds of others homeless.

State police said six persons were killed in Arkansas and more than 70 were injured. Five were killed and at least 150 were injured in Mississippi, state Civil Defense officials said.

"This is unbelievable, just unbelievable," said Arkansas Gov. David Pryor as he toured the devastated town of Cabot, hardest hit in the twisters that roared through the two Southern states Monday.

Five died in Cabot, a community in central Arkansas 20 miles northeast of Little Rock. The sixth victim in Arkansas was killed when a tornado struck the town of Dresco, about 100 miles north of Little Rock.

State police earlier said six persons had died in Cabot, but officials reported today that a man listed as dead was later found alive there.

Most of Cabot's business district was demolished, and state police said 65 buildings on an eight-block stretch of Main Street were either destroyed or heavily damaged.

In Mississippi, five persons were killed when a tornado tore through the town of Canton.

In Texas, authorities said high winds and tornadoes hit towns near Austin and San Antionio before dawn today, overturning mobile homes, knocking down trees and communication lines and injuring about a dozen people.

A spokesman for the Southeast Travis County fire control district said 40 to 60 persons were left homeless in Garfield, 12 miles southeast of Austin, after a twister "went right through the middle" of the village where there are many trailer and frame homes.

Six persons were taken to an Austin hospital for treatment, the spokesman said, adding that two of them appeared to be in serious condition.

Kerrville police dispatcher Tom Rankin said a tornado later whirled across part of Center Point, about 15 miles south of Kerrville and 45 miles northwest of San Antonio, injuring seven persons. He said the injured were taken to a Kerrville hospital but none appeared to be badly hurt.

Rankin said the winds destroyed several homes in Center Point and knocked out the Kerrville state police radio system.

Tornado warnings were issued today for 56 counties, primarily in south-central and southeast Texas.

Mississippi National Guard troops joined local police late Monday in patrolling the debris-lined streets of Canton and enforcing the 10 p.m. curfew ordered to prevent looting of the town's demolished businesses.

In Arkansas, the Lonoke County sheriff's office said, "The whole main street of Cabot has been flattened."

The Arkansas governor, who arrived in Cabot a few hours after the tornadoes hit, ordered 60 National Guardsmen to the storm-ravaged town. Thirty-five Air Force security policemen and 40 state troopers were brought in to help sift through the debris, direct traffic and prevent looting.

Ernie Bailey, 37, a Cabot real estate salesman, said he watched the tornado approach a school filled with children. Then, he said, the twister "just sort of hopped to the side of the school and went on by."

Callaway resigns; Morton to head campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Howard H. Callaway has resigned as President Ford's campaign manager and will be succeeded by Rogers C.B. Morton, a White House source said today.

Morton is the White House counsel who handles liaison with the President's campaign committee.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said he might be able to give details later today about a meeting Monday between Callaway and Ford at the White House. The meeting lasted nearly an hour.

Callaway had been suspended at his own request pending an investigation of questions raised about his role in promoting a Colorado ski resort he owns.

The switch in campaign management had been expected; Callaway said earlier that he did not expect to return to his role as manager of the Ford campaign.

Callaway stepped aside March 13, while saying that he was confident of "complete exoneration" in the ski area controversy.

The suspension came after it was disclosed that Callaway, a former secretary of the Army, won permission to expand the ski resort on government land after discussing the case with Agriculture Department officials last summer in his Pentagon office.

That was on his last day in the Army post, which he left to take the campaign job.

Stuart Spencer, who had been Callaway's deputy, has been serving as acting campaign manager.

Morton has been Ford's chief White House political aide, with the title of counselor to the President.

Successful air launch of Navy's new missile

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A tactical version of the Navy's new Tomahawk cruise missile has been successfully air-launched for the first time.

The Navy announced Monday that the torpedo-shaped missile flew for 16 minutes off the Southern California coast after being launched like a rocket from a Navy A6 Intruder attack bomber.

The launch was made from 11,500 feet and the missile ran entirely on autopilot, with a civilian engineer in the cockpit prepared to override the controls if needed.

The prime contractor for the Tomahawk missile is Convair Division of General Dynamics in San Diego. The Navy selected General Dynamics' design over that of Vought Corp.

Last weekend's air launch was three weeks ahead of schedule, a General Dynamics spokesman said.

The test missile was later recovered to be used in further test flights, he added.

U.S. Embassy gets 2nd Moscow bomb scare, also false

MOSCOW (AP) — The American Embassy had its second bomb scare in six days today, and it also was a false alarm, Embassy sources reported.

The sources said a Soviet Foreign Ministry official informed the Embassy that an anonymous telephone caller told the Interior Ministry that a bomb would go off in an hour at the Embassy.

The Embassy staff was ordered out of the building, and the building searched. Nothing suspicious was found, and there was no explosion.

The bomb scares and a series of threatening phone calls at night to members of the Embassy staff are regarded as retaliation for attacks by Jewish militants in New York on Soviet goverment personnel and offices.

Belgians hail U.S. decision to buy their machine guns

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The U.S. Army's decision to buy Belgian machine guns was hailed by Belgium today as "proof of the American will to achieve a two-way street between the United States and Europe."

Defense Minister Paul Vanden Boeynants made the comment in a communique issued after being officially informed that the U.S. Army had chosen a Belgian machine gun to replace a jam-prone weapon mounted on U.S. tanks and other armored vehicles.

The choice, announced Monday in Washington, is expected to result in the purchase of 14,000 Belgian MAG-58 guns for about $30 million.

"The decision of the American government is important for the future of our industry and is a proof of the American will to achieve a two-way street between the United States and Europe," said Vanden Boeynants.

Belgium's efforts to sell the weapon to the United States came up during last year's U.S. successes in persuading Belgium and three other NATO countries to buy the new F-16 fighter plane instead of France's Mirage F-1. Then Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger dangled the possibility of the U.S. purchase before Belgian officials in return for choosing the F-16.

However, the U.S. Army said Monday the Belgian gun was picked because it is "superior overall to a U.S. version."

4 in Zebra slayings given life sentences

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four Black Muslims convicted of some of the random Zebra street slayings that terrified city residents during the winter of 1973-74 have been sentenced to life in prison.

Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesh ordered the maximum punishment Monday, saying that the more than 20 attacks, 14 of them fatal, were "vicious and terrifying crimes."

Larry C. Green, 23, J.C. Simon, 29, Manuel Moore, 31, and Jesse Lee Cooks, 30, showed no emotion as Karesh sentenced them individually.

Green spoke briefly to assail reports that police officials were concerned about the safety of Anthony Harris, a former companion of the defendants who was the key prosecution witness against them.

"We have nothing to gain by the death of Anthony Harris, but the San Francisco police department does," said Green. He did not elaborate.

Prowling cat culprit

Power outage affects 14,000 homes in area

A prowling cat early this morning caused a 20-minute power outage affecting nearly 14,000 residences and businesses in Montclair and Ontario.

The power went out at 1:51 a.m. this morning, according to Southern California Edison Co. officials.

Hundreds of people in the south Ontario and Montclair area began calling the Ontario Police Department almost immediately after the initial power failure. Some reporting seeing a huge flash in the sky south of the city.

Montclair residents attempting to call the Montclair Police Department for the next 20 minutes found the telephones dead. Police officers responded to numerous businesses where automatic burglar alarms had been triggered by the power outage.

Edison District Manager Dick Verrue said that the power was out from 1:51 a.m. until 2:12 a.m. He explained that Edison workers at the Oaks Street power station in Ontario reported that the ceiling wiring suddenly shorted out.

Workers climbing up to the wiring, discovered that a cat had crawled between two 12,000 volt lines, shorting them. The short caused two large insulators to explode. Workmen managed to quickly replace the insulators and remove the cat from the wires.

Verrue said the cat, unfortunately, lost all of its nine lives.

Verrue said that the 14,000 residential and business customers affected by the outage were roughly in an area north of the Pomona Freeway, west of Grove Avenue in Ontario, to Central Avenue in Montclair, and south of G and Orchard Streets in Ontario and Montclair.

600 apply for Van Nuys police jobs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — More than 600 people lined up at city hall offices here an in suburban Van Nuys to apply for four jobs as police technician trainees.

Since the job tests were given on a first-come, first-serve basis, some applicants started showing up at noon Sunday for the Monday morning tests, officials said. About 50 people had lined up by 2 a.m. Monday.

Robert Gandy, city director of recruiting, said trainees for the jobs, which require no particular skills or education, get $10,104 annually during their three-year apprentice period. After that, the pay ranges from $12,564 to $18,996, he noted.

Gandy declined to attribute the long lines to high unemployment or an upsurge in popularity of civil service jobs.

Rather, he said the lines resulted from the department's new policy of giving tests to those who got into line first.

"Before we changed to that policy last August," he said, "It was not at all unusual to receive 500 or 600 applications for a few openings, particularly when the skill requirements were minimal."

He said his department drew severe criticism in February, 1975, for wasting money and raising hopes unnecessarily when it tested all 2,800 people who had applied for 10 job openings.

GEORGE PORTER

Nobel holder to give 5 P.C. lectures

George Porter, professor of chemistry and director of the Royal Institution in London and a 1967 Nobel Prize winner for his investigations into fast chemical reactions, will present a series of lectures on the Pomona College campus tonight through Friday.

Porter is the 13th Nobel Prize winner to participate in the annual Fred J. Robbins Lectures at the college.

Of the five lectures Porter will deliver, only one is specially prepared for the general public. This lecture, "Science and the Human Purpose," will be given at 8 tonight in the Seaver Laboratory auditorium, Claremont.

The schedule and subjects of the four other lectures will be: "Molecules in Microtime," 4:15 p.m. today; "Life Under the Sun," 4:15 p.m. Wednesday; "The Excited State of Chemistry," 4:15 p.m. Thursday; and "Models for Photsynthesis," 4:15 p.m. Friday. These lectures also will be given in the Seaver Auditorium.

Watchdog panel

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy says there's a new legislative subcommittee set up to investigate abuses and deficiencies in health care.

Gov. urges 3,000 welfare jobs in private business

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s administration is proposing a $25-million program to create about 3,000 jobs in private business, many for people on welfare who would volunteer.

Martin Glick, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s Employment Development Department director, said Monday the three-year demonstration program would be created by legislation backed by both parties.

But shortly after the announcement, James Lorenz, Glick's predecessor who Brown fired last year, said in a telephone interview that the program is basically what he had proposed.

Lorenz was fired after the leak of his memo criticizing efforts by private enterprise to reduce unemployment. He called for job programs in the non-profit sector, including communal gardening.

Glick said welfare volunteers would be hired at up to $8,000 a year. They would retain welfare benefits unless they gained more than $8,000, but their wages would be deducted from welfare benefits.

He said the program would be funded by $10 million from the state general fund and $15 million in federal funds — about 25 per cent of the state's work incentive grant which "has been largely spent running bureaucracy."

He added that the $10 million would be partly offset by a savings of at least $4.6 million in welfare and food stamps.

Lorenz said he approves of the Glick proposal, but "I'm just tired of being called a nut."

"They attacked me for a long while, then reshuffled the program a little bit, and came out saying 'Look what we've done'."

Lorenz said Glick's plan plays down the non-profit private concept, "but it's there."

Glick said the non-profit sector was involved in the 40 to 50 pilot projects Lorenz started. He said many of them had merit. For example, Glick said the East Los Angeles Community Union's contracts to fix up an abandoned jail and repair school vandalism would receive more money.

The Brown plan calls for local government to propose projects that the state would put up for bid to private profit and non-profit business, Glick said.

Kentucky finally ratifies article banning slavery

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's legislature has ratified the 13th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which prohibits slavery and involuntary servitude, 111 years after it became the law of the land.

Kentucky and Mississippi were the only states to reject the amendment when it was ratified at the end of the Civil War.

The move to ratify the amendment in Kentucky was initiated by Rep. Mae Street Kidd, a Louisville Democrat and one of three blacks in the legislature.

It was approved by the House 77 to 0 and by the Senate on a voice vote.

Group planning auto repair sites to meet

The first meeting of the Pilot Community Action and Youth Project advisory board will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Simons Junior High School multipurpose room in Pomona.

This citizens group, headed by Ben Trammell, is initiating a program to convert abandoned service stations into self-service automotive repair centers, largely for young people.

Trammell said the group plans to add an agricultural program by turning land around the stations into gardens for those who would rather plant things than work on automobiles.

Consultants to the advisory board have suggested that volunteers collect signatures on petitions stating support of the project to be submitted to funding agencies with requests for grants.

Currently petitions are being circulated in South Pomona for this purpose, Trammell said.

In addition, department stores in the area are interested in donating automotive repair tools for the project, and possible sites for the pilot project have been narrowed to two in South Pomona, Trammell added.

Founding members of the project advisory board are Trammell and his wife, Cecilia, Lee Watring, Gwen Watring, John White, Rose White and Genivieve Scarors. Seven others who have volunteered to serve on the board are Donald Naylor, Jessie R. Sequoria, Joe Marcorn, Donald and Robert Shehee and Leroy and Stephanie Barreras.

Project consultants include City Councilman Ben Ochoa, Jim Lightfoot of the city Planning Department, and Jeff P. Hawley and Robert Rodriquez of the Parks and Recreation Department, along with representatives of the juvenile diversion project and the State Rehabilitation Department.

Trammell said the community meeting March 17 at which the project was announced was successful.

It was attended by representatives of the Juvenile Diversion Project, the Police Department, the Parks and Recreation Department, the Los Angeles County Probation Department, Pomona Unified School District, State Department of Rehabilitation and Pomona City Council.

Panel okays farm board plan backed by growers

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Heeding Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s plea, a key state legislative committee has approved emergency funding to revive the state farm labor board.

But the Senate Finance Committee's two 7-6 votes Monday added a proviso that keeps the outcome in doubt.

Basically, the committee approved $2.5 million to finance through June the board which growers say has been biased in favor of the United Farm Workers of Cesar Chavez.

But the proviso is a grower-backed amendment giving the state Office of Administrative Procedures power to pick hearing officers and field personnel.

A Chavez spokesman said the proviso would "sabotage" operations.

Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, who will carry the bill on the Senate floor, told a reporter that backers are trying to figure out what to do next.

He said he might try to delete the amendment. That would take a two thirds majority on the Senate floor.

The Senate Democrats behind the bill are three votes short of two thirds. But farm labor voting has crossed party lines.

The $2.5 million had squeaked through the Assembly without a vote to spare.

Youth expelled in Claremont

The Claremont school board Monday afternoon expelled a San Antonio High student from the district.

The board gave no reason for the expulsion of Gregory Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams.

Although the parents originally had asked for a public hearing for their son, the elder Williams Monday afternoon asked the board for a closed meeting "so not to prolong the matter."

Board President Ernest Taylor asked that the board room be cleared.

About half an hour later, the board came out of executive session and, upon Dist. Supt. Richard Kirkendall's recommendation, expelled young Williams who was not present.

'Cuckoo's Nest' in sweep of Oscars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," a movie whose message of hope and perseverance has special meaning to the people who fought for 15 years to get it made, became the first film since 1934 to sweep the four most prestigious Academy Awards.

"Cuckoo's Nest" was named best picture of the year.

Jack Nicholson, as the leader of a rebellious group of mental hospital inmates, and Louise Fletcher, as the strong-willed nurse who keeps them in line, won the top acting Oscars for 1975. Milos Forman was named best director. In addition, Lawrence Hauben and Bo Goldman took best screen adaptation honors at the 48th annual presentations Monday night.

"To anybody who's got a dream and there's a possibility that it's not going to be a reality, just hang on, it'll be all right," said "Cuckoo's Nest" coproducer Michael Douglas, accepting the Oscar for best picture. That was the message of the film and of making the film.

Comedian George Burns, 80, became the oldest actor ever to win an Oscar. His supporting performance in "The Sunshine Boys" was his first motion picture part in 37 years. Lee Grant, whose NBC television series "Fay" was canceled three weeks after it debuted last fall, was named best supporting actress for her role as an adulteress in "Shampoo."

"It Happened One Night," with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, was the only other film to walk off with the top Academy Awards, in 1934.

Douglas' father, actor Kirk Douglas, tried to turn Ken Kesey's novel of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" into a movie 15 years ago, but he was never able to get the project off the ground. Michael got interested in it five years ago and with coproducer Saul Zaentz fought to get financial backing amid a widely held feeling that the project couldn't be a success because it was depressing and dealt with crazy people.

Their dream paid off and so, in other ways, did those of Miss Fletcher, Nicholson and Forman.

Miss Fletcher, who had given up acting for 11 years to raise her children, won the role as Nurse Ratched only after five big name actresses had turned it down. Accepting the Oscar, she provided the most touching moment of the evening as she faced a national television audience and said, her voice breaking with emotion:

"For my mother and my father, I want to say thank you for teaching me to have a dream. You are seeing my dream come true."

She delivered the message in sign language at the same time. Her parents, both deaf mutes, were watching from their home in Birmingham, Ala., she told reporters later.

For Nicholson it was the first Oscar win in five tries. He previously had been nominated for "Easy Rider," "Five Easy Pieces," "The Last Detail" and "Chinatown."

"Well," he said with a grin, "I guess this proves there are as many nuts in the Academy as anywhere else."

Forman, a native of Czechoslovakia, also had special reason to savor his directing Oscar. With him at the ceremonies at the Los Angeles Music Center were his twin 11-year-old sons. He was reunited with them Sunday night after five years. They flew in from Prague, where they live with their mother, from whom Forman is separated.

"The reunion was a great thrill," Forman told reporters backstage. "But I asked them if they wanted to see my film and they said, 'Well, we would rather see 'Jaws.'"

"Jaws," the biggest grossing picture of all time, won three Oscars — for sound, musical score and film editing. The only other big winner was "Barry Lyndon," which won for art direction, costume design, scoring adaptation and cinematography.

Best original screenplay went to Frank Pierson for "Dog Day Afternoon." "I'm Easy," written and performed by actor Keith Carradine in "Nashville," was named best song.

Mary Pickford, the first superstar of films and a founder of the Academy, was presented a special Oscar. The 82-year-old actress did not appear on stage but was seen in a prerecorded interview, in which she remarked, "You've made me very, very happy."

She seemed wan but still pretty in a light green satin gown trimmed with white fur.

Burns, ever the comic, was in complete control as he made his acceptance speech for the Oscar, capping a distinguished career. "Making 'Sunshine Boys' was so exciting that I'm going to make a picture every 37 years," he cracked.

Backstage he was more reflective when asked what he thought about inheriting the role after the death of his closest friend, Jack Benny.

"It was a pretty tough part for me to take," he acknowledged. "But look, life goes on. You can't quit show business — not at my age. I'm starting a whole new career."

Postal Service may be bankrupt within year

Cries for help fall on deaf ears—Postmaster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deficit-plagued Postal Service may be bankrupt within a year unless the Treasury Department agrees to grant new loans to the postal agency, says Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Bailar.

Bailar, for the first time placing a time limit on the ability of the Postal Service to remain in operation, told the Senate Post Office Committee on Monday that some action must be taken in two to four months to prevent new cutbacks in service.

Bailar's testimony came on a day when in 10 major East Coast cities business deliveries were reduced to once daily. Such cutbacks, along with the closing of rural post offices, prompted the Senate panel's hearing.

Meanwhile, the House Postal Service subcommittee was to open hearings today on a bill to abolish the Postal Rate Commission, which has been criticized for lengthy deliberations that have contributed to the rising deficits in the Postal Service.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, chairman of the Senate committee, said Postal Service cutbacks have created a "resentful, rebellious state of mind" among the public and members of Congress.

Bailar also bitterly told the Senate panel that his cries for help have fallen on deaf ears at the White House. He said administration budget advisers have refused to meet with him to discuss the Postal Service financial crisis. "Their inaccessibility and attitudes are deeply disturbing to me," he said.

The Postal Service expects to lose a record $1.5 billion this year.

Discussing the Postal Rate Commission, Bailar told the senators the length of the panel's deliberations on whether to make the old 10-cent letter rate permanent delayed by almost six months the increase to 13 cents last December. The delay cost the Postal Service more than $1 billion dollars and was "prolonged to the point of threatening the economic future of the Postal Service," he said.

The commission, an independent agency, took almost two years to decide to let the 10-cent rate become permanent, clearing the way for the hike to 13 cents. While the commission pondered the matter, inflation increased Postal Service costs, but rates were frozen.

The commission says it is moving faster in deciding whether to give final approval to a permanent 13-cent rate as well as to new rates for other types of mail. It expects to finish its deliberations in June, nine months after they began, a spokesman said.

The rate case has 52 different participants, mostly large users of the mail, who have a chance to question in detail the data submitted by the Postal Service to justify the rate increase.

The bill before the House subcommittee would allow the Postal Service to raise rates on its own, provided they increased no faster than the government's inflation index. If the Postal Service wanted to raise rates faster than the general inflation rate it would have to get the approval of the House and Senate post office committees.

Bailar expressed hope that the next rate increase would not be necessary before sometime in 1977.

Three hurt in car crash

A Pomona man was injured seriously Monday afternoon in a two-car collision in which two others also were hurt.

The crash was at Towne Avenue and Phillips Boulevard. Police reported that Raymond Lopez, 28, was westbound on Phillips and Alfred F. Pulcini, 33, Pomona, was southbound on Towne when their vehicles collided at 3:30.

The impact knocked Lopez and his passenger, Ronald E. Walsh, 33, Pomona, from their car. Lopez suffered a skull fracture and was reported in serious condition today in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit. Walsh suffered facial injuries, including a broken nose, and was released after treatment. Pulcini had leg injuries and also was released after treatment.

Girl on bike injured

An 11-year-old girl riding a bike was injured when she was hit by a car which was backing from a driveway in Pomona about 30 minutes earlier. The victim, Denise Taylor, Pomona, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was released after treatment.

The driver of the car, Margie R. Brown, 48, Pomona, was backing from the driveway at 1145 S. San Antonio Ave. when the accident occurred.

Spotlight on area crime

3 arrested in holdup

Three Pomonans were arrested Monday afternoon as suspects in a holdup in La Verne after a Glendora police detective spotted their car on the San Bernardino Freeway and fired several shots to stop them, authorities said.

The holdup was at the Inland Dairy at 2055 White Ave. in La Verne. Mahendra Bhakta, 26, was robbed by two young men armed with pistols.

La Verne police broadcast a description of the car used by the robbers and its license number, and a car matching that description was observed westbound on the freeway by Detective O.T. Pfeiffer. Pfeiffer tried to have the driver pull over and fired several shots as both vehicles left the freeway. The driver finally stopped at Workman and Maplewood avenues in West Covina where two suspects were seized and one other fled on foot.

Those arrested immediately were Melvin Anthony Randall, 38, of 2983 Eaton St., and a 16-year-old juvenile boy. The third man, 21-year-old Ricky Young, 169 Fanshaw Ave., was flushed from a shed two blocks away after West Covina officers surrounded it. All three were booked on suspicion of robbery.

La Verne Detective Charles Andre said that two weapons were recovered after the arrests. One was a .32-caliber automatic and the other a starter's pistol.

Both adults were being held today and the juvenile was released to his parents pending action by probation department officers.

$10,000 taken from safe

ONTARIO police this morning are seeking a 53-year-old man for questioning in the alleged theft of $10,000 in cash from a portable safe in a home at 754 El Dorado Ave. Monday morning.

Wilma Jane Bossard, 36, of the El Dorado Avenue address, who lives with her mother, Mildred Bossard, said they found the money missing from the safe after a man who had been living with them disappeared about 5 a.m. with his suitcase in hand.

Miss Bossard told officers that the man, identified as James Arts, had been living in their home for some time. Monday morning Arts left. The women said they noticed that some of Arts' better clothes and a suitcase were missing from his room.

Police investigating the theft found that the safe had not been damaged and was locked when the women opened it in the afternoon.

Market robbed

A lone gunman escaped Monday night with cash in a holdup of the Alpha Beta Market at 150 W. Willow St. in POMONA, police reported.

Employe John G. Spencer, 22, said he had just gone to a checkstand to okay a check when the man walked up, showed a revolver and demanded money. The robber got cash from the register at the check stand and from a cash drawer Spencer was carrying. He fled from the store and ran west on Willow Street.

The robber gunman was described as about 27, 5 feet 7 weighing 140 pounds. He had black, curly hair, a full mustache and was unshaven. He wore a dark green jacket and blue jeans.

Chino man wounded

A Chino man was wounded slightly Monday night when several shots were fired into his car as he was driving on Valley Boulevard near Omar Street in POMONA, police reported.

The victim, David Alfaro, 23, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was released after treatment.

His passenger, Katheren Green, 20, who lives near the scene of the incident, was unhurt.

Alfaro said he was eastbound on Valley when several shots hit the vehicle. One penetrated a door and struck his foot. Another shattered the rear window and went through the roof.

He said the shots apparently did not come from another car and he could offer no reason for the incident, police reported.

Defeated candidate taken to court

The City of Chino took defeated mayoral candidate Nick Medina to court Monday over an unpaid bill, but no decision was reached in the case.

Chino Municipal Court Judge David Aaron took under submission arguments presented by Medina and Asst. City Clerk Joan Kruse, who is seeking to collect a $206.04 bill for printing the candidate's statement of qualifications.

By law, Aaron has 90 days to reach a decision in the civil suit but court officials indicated a judgment will be rendered before that time.

Mrs. Kruse told Aaron in a brief statement that the city, in suing Medina, was seeking nothing more than the amount of the unpaid bill.

Medina has refused to pay the bill because the city "bungled" the Spanish language portion of his statement, he said. The statement was gramatically incorrect and there were omissions, he added.

"The city made an error and now they want me to pay for it," Medina declared. He charged that persons who translated the statement were not qualified. "I contend that I didn't get what I paid for."

Part of the statement omitted contained the names of two organizations to which Medina belongs, he noted. "This is an insult to me and the Spanish language."

Mrs. Kruse said candidates in the March 2 election were not charged for Spanish translations contained in the sample ballot. The $206.04 charge was for the entire statement. It cost the city $20 to hire a qualified translator from the Western Schools Accreditation Association, she added.

Call for bids out to pipe water to Prado

Providing domestic water to the Prado Regional Park was undertaken by the San Bernardino County Supervisors Monday when they authorized a call for bids to ship the water from a well at the Chino Airport.

The bids will call for the water to be pumped from the well, installation of a water line from the well near Kimball Avenue to both the park and El Prado Golf Course and a storage tank at the park.

The domestic water will be used at the park for drinking, restrooms and fire protection and at the golf course for the clubhouse needs and drinking fountains.

Tertiery treated water from the Chino Basin Municipal Water District will be used for irrigation at both sites and for the lakes at the park, said Supervisor Robert Townsend.

Supervisors expect to award a contract within 30 days.

Didn't wait for verdict

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — A Fresno man on trial just couldn't wait for the jury's verdict, authorities say. In fact he leaped over a railing and ran out of the courtroom just before the jury returned its verdict.

Alexander Proster, 22, was captured minutes later.

The verdict was guilty.

Proster and Alinda Ramey, 20, also of Fresno, were found guilty in Superior Court recently of a $150,000 robbery at Sierra Jewelers in downtown Bakersfield last Nov. 8.

They were arrested outside a Fresno apartment house following the robbery.

On April 20th, 1976, at 11:00 o'clock A.M., at the main entrance to the West Hollywood County Building, 621 North San Vicente Boulevard, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, CALIFORNIA RECONVEYANCE COMPANY, a California Corporation, as duly appointed Trustee under that certain Deed of Trust recorded on July 14, 1964, in Book T3809, Page 438, of Official Records of Los Angeles County, State of California, under the power of sale therein contained, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, payable at the time of sale in lawful money of the United States of America, without warranty express or implied as to title, use possession or encumbrances, all right, title and interest now held by it as such Trustee in and to the following described property situated in the aforesaid County and State, to wit:

That portion of Block 232 of the Pomona Tract, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 3 Pages 96 and 97 of Miscellaneous Records, in the office of the County Recorder of said County, described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the North line of Tract of land marked "Concepcion Berry's" on the map of Sanborn, Rollins and Johnson Subdivision, as per map recorded in Book 30 Page 49 of Miscellaneous Records of said County, distant West thereon 150 feet, 4 inches from the Northeast corner of said land marked "Concepcion Berry's" thence West along the North line thereof 50 feet; thence South parallel with the West line of Garey Avenue, 114 feet; thence East parallel with said North line, 50 feet to a line parallel with the West line of said Garey Avenue, which passes through the point of beginning; thence North along said parallel line 114 feet to the point of beginning.

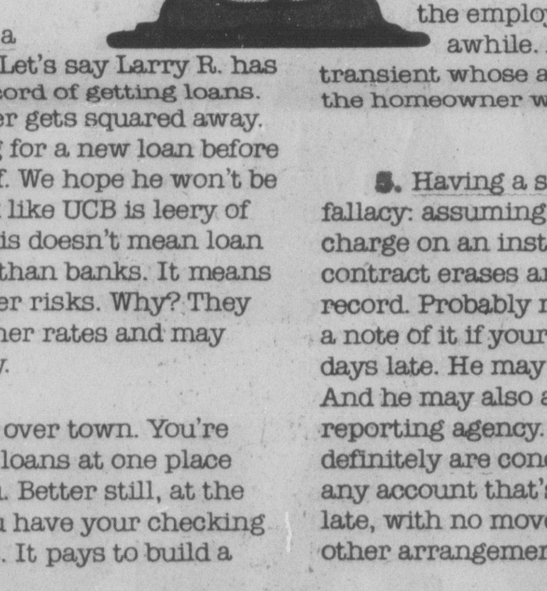

From information which the Trustee deems reliable, but for which Trustee makes no representation or warranty, the street address(es) or other common designation of the above described property is: 168 W. Phillips Boulevard, Pomona, California 91766.

Said property is being sold for the purpose of paying the obligations secured by said Deed of Trust including fees and expenses of the Trustee and of Sale.

Dated March 15, 1976.

What are your chances of getting credit?

7 things that can hurt:

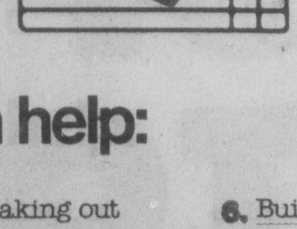

1. Always paying cash for everything. It's a good old American virtue, and as bankers we wouldn't knock it. But avoiding all use of credit hardly gives you a credit rating. Good move for a young adult: open a charge account at a department store. Buy only what you'd buy anyway, and pay those bills promptly.

2. Always owing a small-loan company. Let's say Larry R. has a long, consistent record of getting loans. What's more, he never gets squared away. He's always applying for a new loan before the old one is paid off. We hope he won't be too shocked if a bank like UCB is leery of giving him credit. This doesn't mean loan companies are nicer than banks. It means they can afford greater risks. Why? They normally charge higher rates and may require more security.

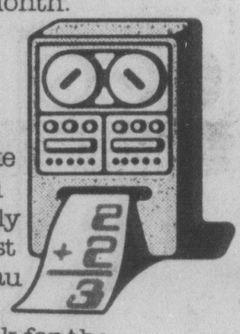

3. Borrowing all over town. You're better off to get your loans at one place where they know you. Better still, at the same bank where you have your checking and savings accounts. It pays to build a good, strong relationship with one place that can handle all your banking needs.

4. Not having any roots. UCB knows that people change careers and jobs more than in grandfather's day. And that they move around more (especially Californians). Still there is a difference between the constant job hopper and the employee who tends to stay awhile. Also, between the transient whose address is a P.O. box and the homeowner who's active in the PTA.

5. Having a slow-pay record. Popular fallacy: assuming that paying the late charge on an instalment loan or sales contract erases any late mark from your record. Probably not. A creditor may make a note of it if your payment is 10 or more days late. He may send you a notice. And he may also advise a credit-reporting agency. Creditors definitely are concerned about any account that's consistently late, with no move to make other arrangements.

6. Being up to your neck in payments. It's normal in today's credit society to carry some debt. But how much is too much? We believe a typical family with two children shouldn't have monthly debt payments totaling more than 40% of their gross (before taxes) monthly income. That is, if their income is $900 a month, or $10,800 a year, these payments shouldn't exceed $360 a month.

7. A goof-up in your credit rating. Computers and credit people can make damaging mistakes. If you believe you've been wrongly rated a bad credit risk, first ask your local credit bureau what your rating is. (If you know its name, look for the number in the White Pages of your phone book. If you don't, call one of the major credit-reporting agencies listed in the Yellow Pages.) If you believe your credit rating is incorrect, check into the law that can help you correct it.

7 things that can help:

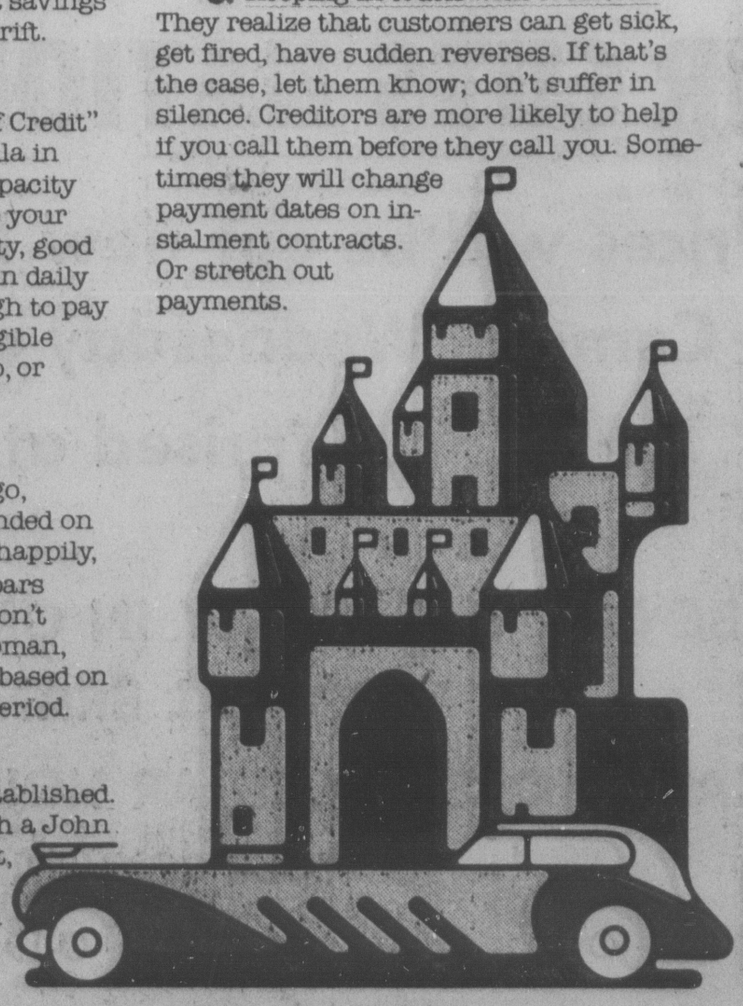

1. Opening a couple of bank accounts at the same bank. A checking and a savings account. Good management of your checking account helps show that you're a responsible person. And building a savings account shows an awareness of thrift.

2. Having a good "Three C's of Credit" rating. Banks often use this formula in rating an applicant: Character, Capacity and Collateral. Character refers to your personal traits – honesty, reliability, good judgment – shown on the job and in daily life. Capacity means income enough to pay off your debts. And Collateral: tangible assets like a home, a car, a Picasso, or securities.

3. Being a person. Not long ago, getting credit at some banks depended on your sex. Or marital status. Now, happily, the Equal Credit Opportunity Act bars such discrimination. At UCB, we don't discriminate if you're a man or woman, married or single. Our policies are based on the belief that people are people. Period.

4. Getting your own name established. Nobody is eager to do business with a John (or Jane) Doe. To qualify for credit, you should establish a financial identity. By maintaining your own checking or savings account, for example, or getting some credit cards in your name. Perhaps by taking out and repaying a personal loan if needed.

5. Keeping in touch with creditors. They realize that customers can get sick, get fired, have sudden reverses. If that's the case, let them know; don't suffer in silence. Creditors are more likely to help if you call them before they call you. Sometimes they will change payment dates on instalment contracts. Or stretch out payments.

6. Building a rainy-day fund. Keep feeding your UCB Regular Savings Account till it's two to three times your monthly income. Then if there's an emergency, you've got a financial cushion. And you may not have to touch it. Leave your savings intact, and ask for a loan at a lower-than-usual interest rate. That's possible because your savings can be pledged as collateral. Meantime, your savings keep right on drawing 5% interest. Which is neat.

7. Realizing what credit is. Basically, it's leasing money as needed. And the finance charge you pay for its use is like a leasing charge. UCB offers credit in many forms. Simple-interest personal loans. (You pay interest only on the unpaid balance. There's no prepayment penalty.) Simple-interest car and home-improvement loans. Credit-card loans. Balance Plus" loans. Real estate loans.

We lend because we're in the lending business – not because we're keen guys or easy marks. We expect borrowers to level with us and to try to make their payments on time. In turn, we try to be honest and candid with them. In fact, that's why we run ads like this.

Training for Pomona school parents

A series of workshops will be offered to parents of students in the Pomona Unified School District at no charge by the Emergency School Aid Act Pilot Project through May.

Topics to be covered include clothing construction, home decorative arts, assertion training, law and parent awareness. The courses will be taught by members of the Pilot Project parent development component and other members of the community.

Workshops will be offered during morning and evening hours at the Pilot House, the ESAA counseling center located at 784-786 N. Garey Ave. Parents may call the Pilot Parent Development Office at 621-5027 for information and registration.

Pilot home economist Beret Mason will conduct the courses in home decorative arts and clothing construction. Home decorating includes such areas as making curtains and pillows, dough art, decoupage, macrame, simple upholstery, and ecology-related crafts. Four homemaking workshops will be held on Tuesdays, April 6, 20, 27, and May 4 from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Decorative home arts will also be offered in six evening workshops, from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m., this Thursday and April 8, 22, 29, and May 6 and 13. Both these workshops will be limited to the first 12 people who register.

A clothing workshop, featuring sewing with knit fabrics in construction of basic items for children and adults, will be offered on Wednesday mornings, this Wednesday and April 7, 21, and 28, from 9 to 11:30.

Antonio Baiz and Lynda Abernathy, Pilot counselors, will lead a six-session workshop on assertion training Thursday and April 8, 22, 29, May 6 and 13. The classes will be held at the Pilot House, 7:30 to 9 p.m., and enrollment will be limited to the first 12 who register.

These workshops help parents increase their personal confidence and learn to assert their basic human rights. Classes will deal with expressing one's own beliefs, feelings, and wants in an honest, direct and appropriate way.

A consumer education workshop concerning laws and how they relate to the individual will be sponsored on Tuesday evenings by Antonio Baiz and Lynda Abernathy, beginning April 6. Attorney Arthur Lindars is coordinating guest speakers for the workshop.

The four sessions will cover information concerning new laws on marijuana and drugs and how they relate to minors, the juvenile court system, the search and seizure law, and the adult court system. These workshops will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. April 6, 20, 27, and May 4. There will be no enrollment limitations.

Salk backs Ford flu plan

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dr. Jonas Salk, developer of the first polio vaccine, is supporting President Ford's plan to innoculate the entire United States population against a deadly influenza strain expected next autumn.

"We should anticipate it and provide whatever is necessary to prevent even a beginning since this is a virus that spreads from person to person rapidly with a short incubation period of anywhere from 12 to 36 hours," he said during the weekend.

The Swine flu strain killed 500,000 persons in the United States and millions around the world in 1918-19.

Salk, 61, founder of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in nearby La Jolla, said preparations for the vaccinations should proceed without guessing about the extent or time of the possible outbreak.

"If you were to wait until September and wait for early signs, then it would be too late," Salk said

Salk, who helped develop the first influenza vaccine while he was assigned to the Epidemiology Board of the armed forces during World War II, advised Americans to look upon the program as something that should have been done years ago.

"It will always be beneficial," he said, "because we know that when a virus begins to recycle it becomes a prevalent virus for several years.

Career seminar slated at LVC

A president of several companies and boards and community leader will serve as the keynote speaker at a career seminar Thursday at La Verne College.

Mrs. Mary E. La Fetra of Glendora, president of the La Verne College Board of Trustees and the Rain Bird Sprinkler Manufacturing Co., will lead the business and career seminar at 12:30 p.m. in room 261 in the Science and Education building on the campus.

Though open to men of the community, the all-day seminar is geared generally to the needs of women, especially those who are interested in exploring new careers and new job opportunities, according to Clara Craft, La Verne career counselor.

Earlier in the day, at 10 a.m. in La Fetra Hall, participants will view a film, "Careers in Focus." A second film, "You and the Work Week," will be shown at 2 p.m.

Members of the College's English Department and Mrs. Marian Clark of the Pomona Employment Development Department will direct a wrap-up of the seminar at 4 p.m. in La Fetra Hall.

MRS. MARY LA FETRA

Bethel to greet members

Five young women will be initiated as new members at the Wednesday meeting of Bethel 353, Job's Daughters.

The 7 p.m. ceremony will be held at the San Dimas Masonic Temple.

To be initiated are Vickie Evans, Tina and Lori Rummell, Ilene Donaldson and Sharon Della Penna.

Mrs. Evelyn Simon, the deputy grand guardian, will be present for her official visit. Plans for the trip to Grand Bethel will be discussed.

Right file

If your nails break, never file them in the corners. Square edges provide stability and a little more security from splitting.

Realtors will hear Mr. Gibson

The Ontario, Upland and Chino Chapter of Women's Council of Realtors will meet for a luncheon Thursday noon at the Arbor restaurant, Upland.

Speaker at the luncheon will be George Gibson, Upland mayor, whose topic is "History of Ontario-Upland Area Yesterday and Today."

Home in Pomona planned by couple

Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Nicholson have established a home in Pomona following their marriage in the chapel of Trinity United Methodist Church, Pomona. The Rev. John Black officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The former Miss Deborah Kay Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin D. Johnson of San Dimas.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Walter Nicholson of La Verne.

The honor attendant was Sherri Stevens of Leona Valley and the best man was Tom Johnson of San Dimas.

Cheryl Hallet was candlelighter and Craig Stevens was the usher.

A reception at the church honored the newlyweds before they left for a wedding trip to Huntington Beach.

Why join cults?

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My nephew left home six months ago and joined a far-out religious group that pursuaded him to break off all communication with his parents. Naturally, they're heartbroken. I think he took off because he was given too much of everything and, in simple language, is just plain spoiled. My husband disagrees. What is your opinion? — A.C.

Dear A.C.: I think the reason your nephew left home goes deeper than his having been "spoiled" or having received too many material things. There must have been some deprivation in the home for a youngster to be initially drawn toward such a religious group.

A doctor who conducted in-depth interviews with 14 followers of one self-styled American "guru," found most fit a particular pattern. All were white, most had been to college and had stopped working.

With one exception, all said that before meeting the guru they were unhappy, depressed and anxious for some time. Backgrounds invariably included sibling rivalries, failure to meet others' expectations, and poor heterosexual relationships.

Ten had been in psychotherapy; 11 had expermented with psychedelic drugs. Many had parents who showed psychiatric symptoms. Once they joined the group, all felt loved and accepted. This particular guru served as both mother and father, and gave his followers the feeling that they were worthwhile.

Because some children suffer traumatic disappointment with either parent, they are left with a feeling of incompleteness. In adolescence they try to remedy this by searching for a strong parental figure.

I think many young people are disillusioned with the world and are seeking escape from what they feel they have no power to change. Their flight into extreme religious groups results from a sense of alienation.

Perhaps more important than what drives youngsters toward these groups is what keeps them there. In some cases, there definitely is a kind of mind control through brainwashing. In many groups, the youths are overworked and become extremely fatigued. Usually, they are in a state of stress when they first encounter the group. Further tension, plus deprivation of food and sleep, produces a high state of suggestibility which is increased by the fact that they are among others their age. Under these circumstances it isn't too difficult for a kind of mass hypnosis to occur.

What's going on around here

RETIRED OFFICERS ELECT LEADER — San Dimas resident Frank Hammond, acting chairman of the communications department at Pasadena City College, is the new president of Mt. Baldy Chapter of the Retired Officers Association.

The chapter, with 110 active members, is affiliated with the national association with 250,000 members. Anyone who is or has been commissioned or served as warrant officer in the U.S. armed services is eligible for membership.

Mt. Baldy Chapter draws members from Pomona, Upland. Additional information concerning this event may be obtained by calling 599-1864.

HAWTHORNE STUDENTS DONATE FLAGS — Two kindergarten classes at Hawthorne School, Ontario, recently presented the school with new American and California flags. The flags were bought with funds collected by the kindergartners from the student body.

The flag presentation was made at the monthly Bicentennial Assembly, an event started recently at Hawthorne. The classes, taught by Lynn Hillen and Thelma Tague, gave the entire assembly program, including a song, "We Are the Future of '76," composed by Mrs. Tague.

CAMERA CLUB MEETING — Luther McGahan will present the program when the Pomona Valley Camera Club meets Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at First Christian Church in Pomona.

His slide presentation will be on Mt. San Antonio College's 1975 "Classroom in the Sky" which covered Peru, Chile and Brazil.

Tract hastens Claremont annexation action

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont City Council Tuesday night decided to annex 2½ square miles of county territory northeast of Claremont.

Whether the annexation succeeds in November would be up to the 320 residents in the area-bounded on the north and west by Mt. Baldy Road to the present city limits, and on the east and southeast by the county line as far south as a point near Padua Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

The council scheduled the special meeting after the city was alerted that a developer had submitted a tentative tract map to the county for 64 lots on 17.75 acres on the east side of Mills Avenue between Pomello and Alamosa drives.

City Manager Norman King said in a memo to the council that the average lot size of 9,500 square feet is not consistent with present city zoning, and that the proposed tract lies in an area being considered for semirural zoning.

King said further that 15 residents near the area of the proposed tract have petitioned for annexation to the city.

King said that the city must move quickly to decide about the appropriate course of action.

The city received a letter from Diann Ring, president of the Claremont Foothill Association, that the group is lending its support to the efforts of annexation under a rural zone.

The Foothill Association was organized in January 1974 by foothill area residents north of Claremont and property owners in the unincorporated area.

"We all are aware of the difficulties of putting the (rural) concept into ordinance form, and our association stands ready to work on the specifics with city representatives and residents," Mrs. Ring said.

Asked why the Padua Hills area was not included in the proposed annexation, King explained that those residents have different issues other than the rural zone, and that those issues can be considered later.

King explained that few persons live in the annexation area south of Base Line Road, and that the annexation includes Pomona Valley Protective Association land bisected by Thompson Creek.

King said that 25 per cent of the registered voters must ask for annexation, one of many steps necessary before an annexation election can be held.

The Foothill Association in cooperation with the city will write persons living in the area and explain why the annexation process is occurring.

Sanford Arkin, past president of the CFA, explained that for the past two years the CFA has been studying the problem of future growth of the flatland area in respect to water, sewage and transportation.

"We want some say about the development of the area," Arkin said, stressing that the tract proposed by Hughes Development Corp. is across from his home. He said that the county's responses to his questions were "quite alarming." He said that the county had felt there was no need for an environmental impact report, and that the development would depend on cesspools for sewage.

"I firmly believe," Arkin said, "that an ordinance can be worked out which cannot be detrimental financially to the property owners."

He said that it can be orderly development to keep density at a minimum.

Howard Bowen, 723 Alamosa Drive, said that "we have a deep interest in the area because it affects the whole city. The area contains a considerable number of persons who will work with the city in developing an ordinance."

Everett Hughes, the developer, said that he had come previously to the city for 13,000-square-foot lots which meant 30 per cent less density. "We hoped we could have brought it into the city with creativity of design. It would still be our wish to do so," Hughes said.

But, he added, "in a time line of progress, these things get pushed back and back."

Hughes suggested that he meet with county residents and possibly arrive at some solution. He said that 1-A (agriculture) zoning is too restrictive.

Said Councilman Frank Hungerford; "Now all the eggs are on the table. If the annexation goes, all will be in the city."

Hungerford asked Willard Gaynor, 1053 E. Alamosa Drive, if he feels the annexation has a good chance. "I'm not sure it will go," Hungerford said.

"I feel that there are enough people that would swing it," Gaynor said. "I have a good feeling it would."

The council approved several steps necessary to get the annexation going, requested the Planning Commission to consider prezoning the area, and asked the association to work with the city staff to prepare a draft set of standards for a semi-rural zone.

City irked but won't ban Pomona yard sales

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Banning of all garage and yard sales in Pomona was taken on today as a one-man crusade by Mayor Ray J. Lepire following defeat of his motion by fellow councilmen.

Lepire, at the suggestion of a citizen at Monday night's City Council meeting, asked councilmen to join him in sending what he said is the burgeoning yard sale problem to the Planning Commission in an effort to stamp out all such enterprises.

Councilman Georgia Grove, halfway siding with Lepire but not in total abolition of such sales, seconded the mayor's motion. But Councilmen Charles Bader, Benjamin Ochoa and Adrian Wright teamed up to defeat the measure.

Before the vote, Wright said yard sales were proliferating and should be checked in some manner by the city to determine if some merchants were not renting empty homes as a front for such sales. He also advocated a fee for conducting such sales.

Mrs. Grove said she also favored a fee and ordering sales in back yards only "where they cannot be seen from the street."

Wright also advocated strict policing of yard-garage sales to learn whether stolen goods were being "fenced" at them. But he did not side with Lepire in the banning of such sales.

After the defeat, Lepire said he will pursue the matter and bring it up again at the next council meeting and continue to do so until some sort of stringent yard sale ordinance is passed.

Also at the meeting, Police Department workers came in for some controversy when two members of the audience and a police union official charged that some patrolmen working in temporary positions of detective are not receiving pay commensurate with their duties. Councilmen ordered Gonce to look into the matter.

Another delay in the controversial and abandoned downtown heliport property was asked for by councilmen when none agreed on how the property should be sold.

Despite a 2-2 deadlock last week, the council gave unanimous approval Monday night to a proposal to provide lights at Cherrieville Park at a cost of $4,000. The money will come from the city's park development fund.

Landscape, lot job let for Chino civic site

San Bernardino County supervisors Monday awarded a contract to landscape and install parking lots at the new Chino Civic Center which contains both county and city structures.

J. B. Crosby, Inc., of Orange, submitted a low bid of $547,000, nearly $50,000 below the county's estimate.

The project will include grading, construction of parking lots with 121 spaces, lighting, bridge for prisoners between the city police station and county jail, fuel pumps, landscaping and irrigation systems, utility connections, storm drains, curbs, gutters and sidewalks, said Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino.

The city and county will participate equally in funding the site work except for the prisoner bridge which will be financed by the city.

The city center is a joint project of the county and city and is located on 11 acres west of Central Avenue between D Street and Chino Avenue.

Work on the second phase of site development is expected to be completed next June to allow the county use of its building by July 3.

The county building, with 46,000 square feet of space, will house the Municipal Court, marshal, county supervisor, district attorney and public defender offices, and Probation, Agriculture and Health departments.

Townsend said the contractor is expected to complete the county building by late May but employes will have to wait for the landscaping and parking areas before moving in next July. A dedication ceremony is being planned for July 3.

The county building is being constructed by the Berry Construction Co. under a $1.4 million contract. This represents nearly a $1 million savings resulting largely from a new building procedure implemented by Townsend.

The county is financing its cost with federal revenue sharing funds while the city is paying its cost from revenue bonds.

The third phase of development to be done later will include the demolition of a structure on D Street plus construction of another parking lot and more landscaping near Sixth and D Streets.

The first phase now nearing completion consisted of grading, utility relocation, heating and air conditioning.

Townsend said the new civic center will make both city and county services more convenient to the public and will save money for both levels of government by making joint use of property and central facilities.

NEW SERVICE UNIT

Fireman Howard Johnson, left, and engineer Bob Parker of the Montclair Fire Department double-check equipment in a first aid kit and the resuscitation unit for new rescue unit.

Montclair has new rescue unit

Residents of Montclair now have the benefits of a modern, fully equipped rescue truck from the Montclair Fire Department.

Fire Chief Harold Duncan reported that the old rescue truck has been replaced with a new vehicle that is "comfortable, heavy and just a good safe unit."

He emphasized that the new unit is not paramedic, but strictly a Fire Department rescue.

"If we ever get into the paramedic program, it is so designed that we can put on all the necessary equipment for paramedics. But even then it is not designed to transport any patient," Duncan said.

The $15,000 cost for the Chevrolet one-ton truck was included in the 1975-76 general budget for the City of Montclair. The department bought the body chasis and S.S.P. Truck Co. of Paramount built the body for attachment.

Capt. Gary Hughes and his crew designed and installed the console, carpeting and compartments, assisted by other Montclair firemen.

"Replacement is more economical with this new truck," Duncan explained. "When the truck wears out, we can lift the body and put on another chassis."

Equipment includes a generator for lighting accident scenes, electronic siren, first aid kits, lights, cutting tools, blankets, fire extinguishers, hydraulic jack, hydraulic cutting equipment for removing victims from wrecked vehicles, a light bar with lights and siren in a single bar, small portable light for the console and other standard rescue equipment.

Two men per shift are assigned to the unit that runs out of the main fire station at Monte Vista Avenue and Arrow Highway.

Montclair councilmen reluctant to give figure on outlay to chamber

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Montclair City council refused to give any tentative allocation figure to the Montclair Chamber of Commerce during a joint session Monday of Council and chamber officials.

Although Councilman Tom McClure urged the council to throw out a "ball-park figure" to the chamber directors in order for the business board to deal more specifically with a 1976-77 budget of programs, Mayor Harold Hayes and Councilmen Paul Jones and Ernest Rowley refused to speak to exact dollars tentatively or definitely.

The chamber executives implied that the group would ask for at least $8,000 over the 1975-76 allocation of $16,000. The increase would cover an estimated $7,800 for a "Western" promotion through a rodeo and special activities for a two-day affair to attract business and community dollars and development.

The chamber budget was set at $32,000 for the current 1975-76 fiscal year. However, the chamber contributed only $9,000 of its $16,000 matching through membership fees and contributions, $7,000 short of the projected budget. Although figures were presented to show an estimated 17 per cent increase in memberships for the past six months, city officials were for the most part reluctant to commit city dollars to business promotions before examining priorities in city service programs.

In presenting the chamber program and expectations, Dennis Silletto of University Mazda and Jim Bookout of Santa Fe Federal Savings and Loan, two new directors of the chamber, introduced new notes and business expectations that signalled a changing attitude within chamber circles. And city officials responded favorably and well to the suggested new image of the chamber of commerce.

In response to a query from McClure on the goals and objectives of the chamber, Bookout said the chamber was "looking for a positive, cohesive group doing something for the city. We want to support the dissemination of information regarding the city and become involved in promotion and communicatiolns that are mutually beneficial to businessmen and the city."

Silletto pointed out that within the community development program being established by the chamber, the chamber would concentrate on pulling together information on what's available and getting it to developers.

"If we're going to grow, we're going to grow in the area of commercial-industrial development. We either grow or we shrink," Silletto said.

Joe Pugh detailed the proposal for Montclair "Western Days," including sponsoring a rodeo day in conjunction with Cal Poly equestrians and others throughout Southern California. He described this as a "fundraising project that will help us pay our way."

He estimated that $3,000 to $4,000 could be raised within the first year and the rodeo could become an annual promotion and billed as a "Montclair happening." The Montclair Plaza and other businesses will promote weekly Western Garb for the event and the chamber is approaching the Chaffey Union High School board about Montclair High School stadium as a possible location. The event would be between February and April, beginning in 1977.

Hayes voiced concerns about spinoff problems such as the cost to the city for additional police patrol, barricades, city staff man hours and parking.

"The programs of the chamber are entirely up to the chamber," Hayes said. "But we must keep in mind the relationship between the chamber and the promotion of the city. The chamber was conceived to be the public relations and promotional arm and agency of the city. We have to think in terms of what it's returning as far as city promotion."

With the Western Days, said Chamber President Loren Stone, "we do not anticipate financial problems. It is designed to make money, not to dip into the city till."

Rowley suggested that the chamber serve as intermediate between the city and developers. Stone pointed out there are "hurdles to overcome" in that developers have been reluctant to come in because of rumors that Montclair officials don't want development.

Silletto injected that the city building and development code is not a stumbling block. He said problems encountered are paper problems that are easily solved by sitting down and talking with city staff and officials. Communication and interest are the keys, the car dealership owner said.

Colina gets lift from carpenters

The Los Angeles District Council of Carpenters presented Casa Colina Hospital a gift of $700 from funds donated individually by a group of business agents and financial secretaries within the council.

The gift represented individuals who chose to pool funds for the hospital rather than exchange Christmas cards, according to Jack Harry, fund-raising chairman; Paul Miller, secretary-treasurer; and George Bernard, business representative of Carpenters Local 1752, Pomona.

World seminar on handicapped

For millions of Americans, "Hire the Handicapped, It's Good Business" — has been little more than a slogan once seen on envelopes next to cancelled stamps.

Thanks, however, to increasing implementation of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973, possibly also as a byproduct of "affirmative action" hiring programs for women and members of minority groups, American business is discovering that even those with such seemingly insurmountable handicaps as blindness or confinement to a wheelchair can make good employes.

Helping along the discovery is the federal government, which under the provisions of the law can deny contracts to any company doing at least $2,500 worth of business with the government that does not make a "reasonable" effort to hire the handicapped and accommodate their disabilities. Accomodation may include such things as lowering water fountains and altering restrooms for people in wheelchairs, or installing warning lights on machinery for the deaf.

Elsewhere, the technology of assistive devices for the handicapped and disabled has made striking advances, but the process of getting these developments to the handicapped has lagged and is uncoordinated.

Most buildings are still constructed for so-called normal people, when for little or no extra cost doors could be built wider and lamps installed for wheelchairs and braille numbers placed alongside elevator buttons.

Fortunately, the special problems and needs of the handicapped are receiving increasing attention from experts in a variety of fields, not only in this country but worldwide. A unique congress convening in Cannes, France, March 28 through April 2 will bring together an expected 400 men and women from 40 countries representing such different but interrelated backgrounds as medical doctors, psychologists, bioengineers, sociologists, government officials, insurance managers, members of veterans and disabled organizations and inventors and manufacturers of all forms of assistive devices.

The purpose of the "Second International Congress on Prosthetic Techniques and Functional Rehabilitation" is to examine all aspects of the programs confronting handicapped people who use assistive devices, with emphasis on the psychological, social and economic.

It is hoped that from this multidisciplinary approach will emerge programs and recommendations to enable all countries to make better use of the human resources of their handicapped.

Being mayor a killing job

Next time New York City Mayor Abraham Beame claims his job is the toughest in the country, next to that of the President, he'll have the statistics to back him up.

Statisticians with Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. have examined the longevity records of all the men who have held the office of mayor of New York since 1784 and find that they "experienced significantly poorer longevity than their contemporaries in the general population," as well as all other groups of government officials with the exception of president of the United States.

Not only that, but as New York has grown in size, mayoral longevity has decreased.

The 25 pre-Civil War mayors, for example, outlived their expectation of life at initial entry into the office by an average of 2.8 years. In contrast, 31 mayors who held the office between 1860 and 1898 fell short of their life expectancy by 1.4 years.

Finally, since just before the turn of the century, when Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island were united with Manhattan and the Bronx, 16 mayors of Greater New York have lived an average of three years less than their normal expectancy.

Ayala has key vote

Dear Editor:

I would like to bring to your attention an upcoming committee vote in which Senator Ayala may well play a pivotal role. It concerns the Stanislaus River, the subject of a four year old controversy between the Army Corps of Engineers who have plans to dam it and various concerned citizen groups who would like to see the project redesigned so as to preserve the river upstream of the project site.

Senator Ayala will be deciding the fate of Senate Bill 1482, a bill which would protect the Stanislaus within the State Wild and Scenic Rivers System. Opponents of the bill claim it is simply a rehash of Proposition 17, the citizen's initiative which in 1974 would have protected the same river. Proposition 17 was defeated by a 53% to 47% margin.

Senator Behr, however, the bill's author, has repeatedly stated that his bill is not a mere duplicate of Proposition 17 but instead a reaffirmation of the state's rights over its own water resources as opposed to federal control. He is referring in this to a 1972 decision by the State Water Regulatory agency which recognized the value of the Stanislaus and required that the Federal Agency charged with the operation of the project demonstrate both a need and commitments for the water before filling the proposed reservoir beyond one quarter full. The federal agency, either unable or unwilling to do so, filed suit and won, creating a furor in Sacramento. Suddenly it appeared that State water agencies were mere formalities, possessing nopower in the face of federal takeover.

Senate Bill 1482 would accomplish two important goals: A) It would bring the design of the project more into line with the environmental, agricultural and aesthetic values of the area and B) It would re-establish California control of California water resources.

It deserves our wholehearted support. — Ronald Wesley Lute, Pomona.

People pick nation's slogan

WASHINGTON — "Freedom's Way — U.S.A." has been chosen by the American people as their official Bicentennial slogan.

President Ford will congratulate the author, Mrs. Ellen Harness of Litchfield, Conn., today in a White House ceremony.

The choice culminates an 18-month search for a phrase that reflects the American experience of the past 200 years and sets a goal for the next 200.

We kicked off the slogans contest in September 1974. "In times past," we wrote, "Americans have been able to distill the cause of the hour into a phrase, a rallying cry, a stirring slogan." We said then that a new slogan for America should not be the forced effort of a political ghost writer, but the spontaneous expression of a grateful citizen.

The American people responded immediately with thousands of slogans. The outpouring was so great that we were encouraged to create a program that would reach millions. So "Slogans, U.S.A." was incorporated as an official Bicentennial program.

The Copernicus Society of America's president, Edward J. Piszek, offered financial help and a cash prize for the winner. American Motors donated a car and Holiday Inns offered 30 days of free lodging to allow the winner to tour the nation.

Indeed, "Freedom's Way — U.S.A." is a particularly appropriate slogan to describe the varied organizations that aided the slogan search. The American Legion, the Jaycees and the General Federation of Women's Clubs winnowed over a million entries down to 100. Then the final six were chosen by the 55 state and territorial Bicentennial chairmen.

These six slogans were announced at the Superbowl game in January and the Advertising Council helped launch a national campaign to get out the vote. An incredible 300,000 ballots were received in one month and were tabulated by the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls.

"Freedom's Way — U.S.A." turned out to be the winner. The author, 29-year-old Ellen Harness, is a claims supervisor for an insurance firm. Her husband, Burt, serves with the local volunteer fire department.

Mrs. Harness told us that her slogan idea came to her as she was driving to work. "I began to think about the number and extent of the freedoms that we enjoy," she said, "the most striking being the number of things that I can do or say without fear. The pursuit of those same freedoms was the driving force behind the Revolution and continues as a driving force today.

"Mistakes have been made and some rights have been abused, but I feel that as long as people continue to keep freedom as the most important goal, those mistakes and abuses will never become permanent practice."

Mrs. Harness' entry edged out "Take Pride in America's Past, Take Part in Her Future," submitted by Mrs. Nola Pearson of Akron, Ohio.

The four other runners-up were Ms. Bitsy Jennings, of Aubur, Ala., with "Honor the Past, Challenge the Future"; Mrs. C. Corkran of Flint, Mich., "America, the Possible Dream"; Ms. Olive Cutting of Cape Cod, Mass., "Stand Fast! Stand Tall! Stand American!" and Mrs. Leigh Waterman of Forestville, N.Y., "America is Your Past, You are Her Future."

Now that the official slogan has been picked, we have a new task: We have to bring it into the lives of all Americans. Again, we're asking for your suggestions. Mail them to Slogans, U.S.A., Box 1976, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Together we found a slogan. Together let's make it ring throughout the land.

Footnote: The slogans campaign was coordinated by Frank Ingo and Mardi Devolites.

WASTING WILDLIFE: We reported over a year ago that endangered animals were dying by the thousands because the federal Fish and Wildlife Service had failed to put them on the protected list.

The helpless animals, sadly are still falling victim to bureaucratic footdragging. Thousands of species are threatened with extinction, but only six, incredibly, were added to the endangered list during the past year.

Plants, too, can be protected by law. Although many species are in danger of being wiped out, not a single plant is on the endangered list.

Keith Schreiner, chief of the Endangered Species Office, has blamed the delays on a lack of resources and personnel. Nevertheless, he is planning to transfer five of his biologists who specialize in preserving endangered species.

CONSUMER CONFLICT: President Ford's nominee for chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission has turned to his prospective clients for help in getting the job.

John Blyington, currently the number two consumer adviser at the White House, has solicited consumer groups to send letters of recommendation to the Senate Commerce Committee, which is voting on his nomination.

The consumer advocates are thus faced with an uncomfortable dilemma: either they forsake their principles and accede to Byington's wishes or they deny the personal request of the man who eventually may be hearing their complaints.

Several groups obliged Byington with favorable letters.

Watch your language

We are our own worst enemies. Our foreign enemies are pretty well intimidated, tranquilized or preoccupied. It's on the home front that we have to watch out.

Americans tending to mongrelize our language are engaged, however inadvertently, however subtly, in sabotage. Every form of tyranny attacks the purity and clarity of the language. Those who care must resist. It was words which created Homo sapiens. It is still the spoken word which separates us from animals.

Yet one million American schoolagers — 12 to 17 — are functionally illiterate. That means they can't read or write at even a fourth-grade level.

Now, because some are unable or unwilling to educate themselves above the language of the streets, there is agitation that our schools should teach nothing better than "street language."

According to the College Entrance Examination Board, last spring's high school graduates scored 10 points lower in verbal skills than the class a year previous and educators expect a further "slippage" when this spring's tests are evaluated.

Dorothy Matthews, director of undergraduate English, University of Illinois, says, "Things have been bad but they are getting visibly worse." Only 8 percent of this year's Illinois freshmen passed a writing proficiency test. Eight percent!

Educator Robert Hutchins has lived to regret his early fascination with informal learning. Now he says that "trying to combine the ideal of no schools at all with the democratic ideal of schools for everybody eventuated in schools without education."

His former University of Chicago, where freshman English requirements were dropped in 1966, has now had to institute remedial classes.

Jacksonville, Fla., schools will be first in the nation to require a literacy test before graduation from high school.

It's not just the youngsters. The U.S. Office of Education computes that more than 23 million American adults — one in five — lack the know-how to address letters, write personal checks, comprehend advertising claims.

Iris Murdoch says, "It is traditionally the task of poets to guard the purity of the language; it is also the task of the university. University teachers, in all subjects, should inculcate and defend clear usage of proper language. Every student, whatever else he does, ought to learn to write his own tongue accurately and clearly and with grace. A culture is as strong and as subtle and as profound as its ordinary language." Words created Homo sapiens. Perhaps words may yet be able to save him.

Just in jest

To kiss or not to kiss, that is the question troubling judges and juries these days. And it all probably started when folks learned that a woman was awarded $40,000 because she suffered an accident which made it impossible for her to engage in soul kissing. — With that momentous decision as a precedent, another woman has now decided this is the opportune time to try and cash in on some of that easy money.

So she's suing her dentist for everything he's worth, claiming that when he repaired her teeth he fixed them so she has difficulty kissing. — Which just goes to show you what inflation has brought about when it comes to establishing the value of a kiss. A little over nineteen hundred years ago the asking price established by Judas was only 30 pieces of silver.

'Need fewer laws' — Ayala

By Earl G. Waters

A handful of Capitol workers, banded together to keep alive the memories and traditions of the United States Marines will hold their annual meeting today. Formed unofficially into a unit known as the Legislative Marines Association, legislators and their aides, newsmen and lobbyists, enjoy a camaraderie only felt by those who have undergone the rigors of Marine Corps training and the perils of Marines in combat.

Currently serving as "commandant" of the group is Senator Reuben Ayala, a veteran who fought with the First Marine Division in the bloody jungles of Guadalcanal where the Marines were to give the nation its first victories against the Japanese in the early dark days of WW II.

Although the total strength of the Marine Corps was dwarfed by the Army and the Navy, a surprising number of those serving in government were Marines.

Perhaps their survival in a military organization whose casualties far exceed in percentages those of any other branch of service have caused these men to dedicate their lives to completing that for which they fought, i.e., the preservation of the United States.

Certainly it would be of no purpose to risk one's life in protecting a nation and the things it stands for only to return home and sit idly by while it goes to pot.

Ayala seems the epitome of those who came back to devote their lives to public service. Upon discharge from the Marines he completed his education and entered business and community service at the same time. He has been accepting more and more civic responsibility ever since.

Starting first as a member of the Chino School Board he was thereafter elected to the Chino City Council and became that city's first mayor. Elected twice to the San Bernardino Board of Supervisors, he served four years as its chairman.

One could say his dedication to public service has been total for, in addition to his official posts, Ayala has served on local police and park commissions, regional planning, health and highway committees, League of Cities and Supervisor associations, as well as being active in civic, veteran and service organizations.

Although others of Mexican descent have served in the California Legislature, Ayala's election to the Senate in 1974 marked the first Mexican American to serve in that august body since Miguel Estudillo represented Orange and Riverside counties way back in 1911.

Ayala brought to the Senate something which has become a rarity among its members in recent years; a wealth of actual working experience in and with local government.

About that he says, "Too many of my colleagues fail to comprehend the frustrations of local government officials, promised home rule on the one hand but constantly confronted with federal and state mandated programs, fiscal responsibility for which is disclaimed by those legislating the programs."

Asked about the major difference between service in local government and the Legislature Ayala said, "There is a better check and balance here where one must persuade at least 20 others in the Senate, 41 in the Assembly and the governor as well to gain approval of an idea. On a five member city council or board of supervisors, you need only swing two others."

His overall view of government echoes the thoughts of most citizens. "We need fewer laws and less government," he declares with fervor.

A trick to see canary's knees

DEAR DR. MILLER: Could it be that Frieda, my canary, has trick knees? Her knee joints look rather strange, very knobby, so I just wondered. Tiny, our little terrier, has trick kneecaps and I was wondering if Frieda might have something like that, too. — V.P.

DEAR V.P.: If your description is anatomically accurate and Frieda does have knobby knees, your powers of observation are truly remarkable. Even if Frieda were defrocked, her knee joints wouldn't be all that apparent to the casual observer. Canaries do have a kneecap of sorts, but it's not a functional, articulating type as found in the canine, and is of no particular significance. Incidentally, the joint most commonly observed in a perching bird, the first one above the foot, is the hock (heel) joint. Could these be the "knobby knees" you're looking at?

DEAR DR. MILLER: I enjoy reading your column, particularly the parts about problem cats. You see, I have five of my own. The youngest, Jinxie, is going on 10. The oldest, Big Mama, is past 17 and going strong. What I'm really writing for, I guess, is to tell people who might want a cat and think they're a lot of trouble it's not necessarily so. My five are full of life, healthy, happy, and no problem. Of course they get good food, their booster shots, their teeth cleaned, and whatever else they need, including a daily brushing. It's just good commonsense care, and that's all they ever need. Cats don't have to have trouble. They can simply be a joy to have and to hold. I just hope most people realize that. — D.W.

DEAR D.W.: I'm sure most — cat people, especially — do.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Old Tom, who's been indoors since he was a kitten, isn't tottering yet, but he has that old cat look about him. That kind of frowzy coat, the pinched-in face, the kind of pretty but foggy look in his eyes. He gets the best of care, as always, but I was just wondering about his exercise. Should we make some effort to keep him quieter? — L.N.

DEAR L.N.: If Tom had a specific heart condition which would make any exercise detrimental, then yes, his doctor would ask you to keep him as closely confined as possible. Otherwise, attempting to restrict his activity is unnecessary, even undesirable. Tom would resent it in the first place, and second, unless some other member of the family were pushing him, he would normally restrict his own activity to the amount he could safely handle.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're hoping to have some this Spring, or at least we're hoping our pair of parakeets do. How fast do their babies grow? — D.D.

DEAR D.D.: At the end of week one, a baby budgie will weigh seven times as much as when the shell was shucked. During the second week, the bouncing baby will double its weight again and by the end of the third week will have attained most of its adult body weight.

For Wednesday, March 31
BERNICE BEDE OSOL

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Though your intentions are good today, others may not fully approve of your methods. Consider their views.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may have a tendency today to give up too easily if what you hope to accomplish can't be done at once. Hang in there.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't take financial risks today in unfamiliar areas, or on people you know little about. It could prove expensive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may find yourself in the spotlight than you realize today. Don't do anything to jeopardize your standing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you have a rather optimistic outlook. Today, you could prejudge situations negatively before they even occur.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone who has borrowed from you, and who has not yet totally paid up, may seek to borrow again today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today your actions may be hampered because you're overly concerned with their effect on associates. Try to please yourself first.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Treat co-workers as diplomatically as possible today or you might experience a minor insurrection. Sugarcoat your demands.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In social situations today, put your best foot forward. If you're not on guard you may do something to make a poor impression.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Temporarily set aside a task which may have a doubtful outcome. Tackle it in a day or so, when you're in a more positive frame of mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Give yourself a little reprieve today from pursuits of a mental nature. Do something that's fun — but physical, as well.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It would be wise to keep a tight rein on your purse strings today. Don't assume new obligations unless they're essential.

Your Birthday March 31

You're an adventurous soul to begin with, but this year you may even be more enterprising. Look for unusual opportunities that may come your way through family contacts.

Ann Landers

Ejacations a wunnerful ting

Dear Ann Landers: What is happening to education in this country? Especially the letter "t." Has it dropped out of the alphabet?

I hear people everywhere say, "I wanna do this" and "I'm gonna do that." They can count to "twenny" but have "plenny" of trouble getting the news straight if they are "innerested" in correct pronunciation. Then there are those who run two words together and kill the ending of the last word. For example, "Don'tcha wanna come over?" Or "Why cant'cha go to the movies tonight?"

When the teachers in Chicago were picketing I heard a picketeter tell a TV reporter, "I'm livin' on da near nort side now." The man next to her (also a teacher) asked, "Do ya like it dere?" A third teacher in the picket line said she had just returned from Ireland. "Where in Ireland did you go?" she was asked. "Edinburgh," was the reply.

Is it any wonder Johnny can't read and Mary graduates after 12 years of school with an eighth-grade education? I am — Boggled

Dear Bog: If what you hear makes you sick, you should see what I get in the way of spelling and penmanship from high school students.

I am deeply concerned about the deterioration of basic education in this country. The sooner we get back to the three "R's" the better.

Dear Ann Landers: You have mentioned Planned Parenthood in your column from time to time for women who are plagued by unwanted pregnancies. I for one, need to know which contraceptive would be best for me. I cannot afford to go to a doctor and pay the price of a visit for information I know is available free. But where do I go?

Will you please tell women like me how we can locate the nearest free clinic? It would be a very useful service. Thank you. — One Who Wants A Child By Choice, Not Chance

Dear One: In the past when I have recommended Planned Parenthood I have said, "Look in your phone book." At the risk of sounding like a broken record, I repeat the advice. Look in the phone book. Seven in ten persons live in areas served by Planned Parenthood agency. The three in ten who do not should phone the Planned Parenthood agency in the nearest large city and ask for guidance.

Dear Ann: Recently you printed a letter from a reader who wanted to know what to do if an elevator crashed. I'm sure it scared the daylights out of people who have a fear of height as well as closed-in places. Please print these reassuring words.

In 1954, Elisha Graves Otis demonstrated his safety device in New York to skeptics who worried about elevators falling. Mr. Otis stepped into the elevator, ordered the ropes cut, switched on the safety device he designed himself, and as the safety switch went into motion, he announced, "All safe, gentlemen. All safe."

Today, elevators are the safest means of transportation known to man. If the safety device should fail (a most uncommon occurrence) a governor goes to work and releases safety clamps against the guide rails. This brings the car to a smooth, gliding stop. So relax, everybody. — P.T.C. Of N.Y.

Dear P.T.C.: I'm pleased to reassure the elevator riders of the world that they needn't worry. Speaking for myself, if it's anything under five floors, I walk. It's good for the heart.

Super Children a super bore

As a grandmother, I intend to be an absolute bore about my grandchildren. I intend to travel with a projector, a screen and 200 lifelike slides showing them chewing on clothespins and standing on their heads. I will produce from my handbag (with or without request) recent urine samples, a tape of them gargling milk at the dinner table and clever sayings that will put Art Linkletter out of buiness.

As a mother, however, I refuse to inflict my children on anyone. (God knew what he was doing when he gave them to a dictator.)

Consequently, I often find myself at the mercy of women with Super Children. Super Children are unmitigated joy. They always make the team, have fewer cavities, skip acne, know what they want to be in the third grade, have their paper displayed at Open House, and always remember to bring home the Mother's Day card from art class.

I have made a study of Super Children and have come to the conclusion that the only didfference between Super Children and Normal kids is in the interpretation. For example:

Normal Kids
Forgetful
Fat
Sloppy beasts
Weirdo who won't get a haircut
Lazy bum
Flunked out
TV addict
Cit from the team
Forgot me on Mother's Day
Oversleeps in the morning

Super Children
Preoccupied
Healthy
Academically geared
Noncomformist
Deep thinker
Victim of a poor teacher
TV critic
Saved from a prejudiced coach
Is saving his money for my operation
A recessive gene

I recently decided to test my theory on two mothers of Super Children with kids away at college. I ambled over to one and said, "Does Martha write home much from school?"

"No," she answered, "Martha is so well adjusted and secure that she can cope with independence. What about your daughter?"

"She doesn't write either."

"Too bad," she signed, "I guess that tells you where you rate."

I went on to the other woman and asked, "Does Phyllis write home often?"

"Oh, yes," she said. "Three times a week. Phyllis is a very loving girl. She has always been close to me. What about your daughter?"

"She writes three times a week, too," I said.

"What a pity," she said. "I'd worry to have a child so dependent."

I get the feeling I lose the minute I open my mouth.

Dr. Lamb

Twitching heart, tense mood

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My dad is 58 years of age. He has had atrial fibrillation for two years and takes a digitalis medicine Inderal and Hydrodiuril. The latter is taken for high blood pressure.

Do these medications indicate a serious conditions and what do these medicines do for him? Do you think he should change jobs? Dad says he gets along well except when he gets uptight or has to talk on the phone for any lengthy period of time. Then the fibrillation comences and he has to stop and relax a bit.

DEAR READER — Atrail fibrillation means that the top collecting sacs of the heart, called the atria, are twitching at a rapid rate, usually around 500 times a minute. Ordinarily the upper part of the heart contracts and squeezes blood into the lower part of the heart before each effective heartbeat. During fibrillation, the upper chambers don't contract and only a few of these twitching movements at a rate of 500 per minute get through to the lower part of the heart. How many get through usually determines how fast the pulse rate is. The pulse is often irregular in these conditions. How a person feels with it also depends on how fast and irregular the pulse rate is. Rapid atrial fibrillation can cause serious disability.

Atrial fibrillation can occur in short attacks like attacks of rapid heart action or be a persistent irregularity. It is not the only cause for irregular heart beats, however. Premature contractions or extra beats, originating from either the atria at the top of the heart or ventricles from the bottom of the heart, can cause irregularities of the heart. For more information about these problems send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardias. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 326, San Antonio, Texas 78292.

The importance of atrial fibrillation depends on what causes it. It can occur in relatively healthy individuals with no apparent underlying heart disease. Even in this condition if the heart rate is too rapid, it can be disabling just like attacks of rapid heart action. It can also be caused by acute illness such as severe diarrhea or following a bout of alcoholism or as a complication of a more serious illness such as a recent heart attack or other forms of underlying heart disease.

The fact that your father has high blood pressure and is taking medicine for it implies that he has underlying heart disease. He may be taking the digitalis medicine to strengthen his heartbeat or help control his heart rate and fibrillation. The Inderal is also designed to help prevent irritability of his heart and protect him against such attacks. These are commonly used medicines in this situation.

Only your doctor can tell you for sure what your dad's status is since he has his records and knows the severity of his high blood pressure and other medical factors.

That means your doctor is going to have to tell you whether he should or should not change jobs. It is true that stress and tension can sometimes aggravate underlying medical conditions.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The late Philip Hal Sims was a giant in every way. He stood six foot three and weighed around 300 pounds that didn't include much fat. He was unquestionably the greatest auction bridge player and no slouch at the game of contract.

Today's hand was misplayed by Oswald Jacoby (then a very young player). Sims, who was watching, said, "You really chucked that one."

Jacoby won the diamond lead in dummy, played the king of trumps and was down one when East showed out on the second lead of the suit.

Today, every expert knows the standard safety play with this combination. You lead a heart to your ace at trick two and then lead back toward dummy. If West plays a low heart you stick in dummy's nine. This will lose a trick to a doubleton queen, but that will be all you lose. Against the actual holding of four to the queen-10 in the West hand you also lose one trick but not two.

Suppose East held four to the queen-10. West would show out. You would rise with dummy's king and lead a third trump toward your jack.

Suppose the trumps broke 5-0. You would have to pay off.

Ask the Jacobys

A North Carolina reader wants to know how to score seven diamonds redoubled and made with an overtrick. It seems the defenders revoked and made just one trick.

The answer is that the revoke penalty only applies to tricks taken at the revoking trick or later and under no circumstances will it cost the revoking side more than one trick if it only takes one trick.

Car road into town rejected

No road for cars leads into the town of Zermatt, Switzerland. To get there, you either hike or ride a narrow gauge railroad line. Whether to build a car road into that town was put to the ballot there not long ago. And the voters nixed it overwhelmingly. No cars, they said resoundingly. Never ever.

TASTE BUDS

It's the taste buds toward the front of the tongue that pick out the sweet and salty flavors. The taste buds farther back identify the bitters and the sours. Studies at Duke University show those taste buds in front wither first as you age. This, they say, is why older people tend to lose their liking for candy, but continue to enjoy such comestibles as dill pickles.

Best of the men handlers are the blue-eyed brunettes. Or so contends one self-proclaimed expert on matters romantic. Our Love and War man is reluctant to argue, but he repeatedly has voiced the personal opinion that green-eyed redheads are second to none in that knack of dominating gentlemen friends. The blue-eyed brunettes he says, are apt to be too tender, a failing rarely evidenced among the green-eyed redheads.

Leonard Pennario

Pianist gives Garrison recital

By RALPH PIERCE

Some of the valley's long-time concert goers will remember hearing the young pianist, Leonard Pennario, play in Bridges Auditorium nearly 30 years ago when he was first launching his concert career. He has appeared in the Claremont Colleges' Artist Course Series several times in the intervening years, but still it was s surprise to see the white-haired, distinguished appearing man who played in Garrison Theater Saturday night. Time does pass!

Many years of experience as a performer have produced a very secure and self-assured pianist who seems to find no technical problems with his instrument. For his program this season Pennarios chose works by Debussy, Schumann sonata, skirted major musical challenges in favor of opportunities for technical display. It was the G Minor Sonata of Schumann which proved to be the evening's major disappointment. The pianist, while conquering all of the technical challenges with admirable ease, chose not be become involved with the poetic and sensitive content of this big romantic work. This is a sonata which would challenge any performer due to its somewhat fragmented structure. Pennario chose to solve the problem by taking very fast tempi. The big moments of the drama seemed to come and go before one had a chance to admire them. The andante movement was especially lacking the tender and romantic qualities which distinguish all of the works of Schumann. The excerpt from "Goyescas" by Granados was delivered in the same manner and sounded a little as though the artist was getting tired of it.

During this Bicentennial year, all performers are displaying works by American composers, and Pennario is becoming known for his many performances of music by Gottschalk. One might wonder if they are worth the effort, but he really tosses them off with the bravura style for which they were composed. It seems too bad to neglect some of our really outstanding American composers of today in favor of pieces like these which are, at best, novelties.

In the opening group of the first book of "images" by Debussy and the closing performance of Ravel's piano transcription of "La Valse" we heard the type of virtuosity for which Pennario is justly famous.

Academy Awards program

Oscar show a blast

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN
PB Staff Writer

The 48th annual Academy Awards presentation at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center Monday night was a potpourri of stars and starstruck fans, of music and searchlights, of flashing cameras, gleaming limousines, furs, jewels, fanfare and a battalion of sheriff's deputies keeping order.

Bleachers had been erected along the west side of the plaza, and movie lovers, mostly young, exuberant and vociferous, had been gathering there since noon to await the arrival of the glittering gods and goddesses of cinema. Placards blossomed: "Give Al his Oscar this year!" "Hello, Robert Shaw" "We go cuckoo over Jack Nicholson" "Boycott grapes!"

There was a gay carnival atmosphere, something between a high school pep rally and a country fair, as the fans, each armed with a camera, shrieked a welcome to the arriving celebrities. And it was quite a galaxy that swam into view — Linda Blair, Art Carney, Elizabeth Taylor in flaming red, bushy-haired Marty Allen, Ricardo Montalban, Goldie Hawn, Carol O'Connor, Burgess Meredith, Audrey Hepburn, Telly Savalas, O.J. Simpson and Walter Matthau.

Groucho Marx got a tremendous ovation when he showed up on white tie, tails and a beret. Mayor Tom Bradley said a few words. Angie Dickinson set eyes and flashbulbs pop ping in a gold lame gown cut down to here and slit up to the hip. Ann-Margret, Hugh O'Brien, Charlton Heston, George Burns, Shirley MacLaine, Steve Larence and Edie Gorme. A handsome German shepherd ("Won Ton Ton, the Dog That Saved Hollywood") and Czech director Milos Forman ("One Flew Over the Cuckoo-s Nest") with his 11-year-old twin sons.

The stellar costuming, from Early Hippie to Playboy Moderne, was as flamboyant and varied as the most eager subscriber to Silver Screen could wish. There were more tuxedos than at a gangster's funeral. Margaux Hemingway wore twisting red and white stripes like a barber pole. Some of the women showed more flesh than a Vegas floor show.

When the tumult and the shouting died and the captains and the queens departed for the Pavilion, the homespun hokum of Hollywood gave way to the telectronic hokum of ABC-TV, which had converted Buffy Chandler's pleasure dome into a giant television studio. This was not a theater piece for the 3,000 resident watchers, but a television show for a quarter of a billion (BILLION!) viewers throughout the world.

In the theater you saw the cameras and cables; the lights shined in your eyes; you watched actors and technicians getting ready for the next number. A director stood beside Gene Kelly during his ode to Mary Pickford, cueing his entrances and exits. ABC staffers flipped idiot cards so Jack Valenti wouldn't fumble his lines. Everyone on stage and in the wings wore earphones. They motioned to the singers; prompted the speakers; sent cameras nosing about the stage (one guided by a cute blonde cameraperson). Monitor TV sets were posted at various places around the theater, and they often gave a better view of the proceedings than people in the audience could see.

When the commercial breaks came on, John Williams' loud pit band rang out as stage and TV monitors fell silent. During the intervals, the waiting audience did what everyone at home was doing. They stood up, scratched, stretched, went to the bathroom, ducked out for a smoke. At one point Williams' Grand Avenue Philharmonic ended a number before the commercial was over. Robert Shaw, the emmcee pro tem, started to introduce "the next presenters," when a sepulchral voice cut in, "Not yet! We're not on the air yet!" Shaw broke up laughing, and was still laughing when the show went back in TView.

The 48th annual awards ceremony, like the 47th and 46th and so on, was sort of fun and sort of dumb, an interesting, traditional rite of spring, like the President tossing out the first ball to open baseball season. As entertainment it doesnt stand up to a Bugs Bunny cartoon, but it is gradually taking its place in the warp and woof of American life, like Miss America contests, and if it takes our mind off of grim other things for a couple of hours, it deserves our gratitude.

Pomona chorus plans program

The Pomona Community Chorus, directed by Ray Woods, will present its fourth annual pops concert Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Pomona City Council Chambers. Admission is free.

Solos and selections by male and female quartets will be included in the program.

Woods also announced that Roger Wagner, best known as director of the chorale which bears his name, will appear May 8 at 8 p.m. at the Upland High School auditorium.

Wagner will direct several combined community choruses of the valley in their favorite selections. Admission for the May event will be $2.50.

Further information about either concert may be obtained by calling Woods at 623-5251, Ext. 332, or Christ Blesch, president of the chorus, at 629-2385.

Indiana completes a perfect season

ONE THAT GOT AWAY

Indiana center Kent Benson falls to floor as he watches ball bounce away. Benson was named MVP in NCAA tournament as Hoosiers won national championship, 86-68 over Michigan. He had 25 points and nine rebounds.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Indiana Hoosiers were handed the No. 1 ranking at the start of the season, but that doesn't mean anything unless you can earn it on the court.

They did—32 times.

The "perfect" Hoosiers capped a glorious 32-0 season Monday night with a business-like 86-68 victory over Michigan in the NCAA finals, ending a long quest for college basketball's Holy Grail.

"If we don't deserve to be national champions, then I don't know who does," said Indiana's superlative guard, Quinn Buckner. "We won all our games. What else can you do?"

The Hoosiers survived several pitfalls on the road to the championship — including a mild mid-season slump that relegated Buckner to the bench. During this time, they struggled to beat Michigan twice by close scores.

"I had my troubles in mid-season," said Buckner. "But I just kept trying. You've got to work harder when that happens, that's all."

Despite what Buckner called "peaks and valleys," Indiana made it through the Big Ten season undefeated, a performance that Michigan Coach Johnny Orr called "unbelievable."

What happened thereafter was even more impressive. The Hoosiers, playing in one of the toughest regional tourneys in NCAA history, defeated St. John's, Alabama and Marquette to win the Mideast and advance to the gold-plated Final Four in Philadelphia.

"It was very physical all through the Big Ten and just as physical in the regionals," pointed out Indiana strongman Kent Benson. "It was as physical as I can remember."

UCLA's Bruins, the defending champions, presented no problem to peaking Indiana in Saturday's semifinals at the Spectrum. The Hoosiers, who had beaten UCLA by a shocking 20 points on opening day, handled them with almost as much ease the second time.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 1976 All-Tournament team of the 38th Annual NCAA Basketball Championships:

Kent Benson, Indiana; Scott May, Indiana; Marques Johnson, UCLA; Rickey Green, Michigan; Tom Abernethy, Indiana.

Benson, who scored 25 points in Indiana's championship victory over Michigan Monday night, was selected the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Others receiving MVP votes were May, Abernethy, and Quinn Buckner, all of Indiana; Green of Michigan and Johnson of UCLA.

Others receiving votes for the All-Tournament team were Buckner and Bobby Wilkerson; Wayman Britt, Steve Grote, John Robinson and Phil Hubbard, all of Michigan; Hollis Copeland and Phil Sellers of Rutgers; Richard Washington and Andre McCarter, both of UCLA.

For a change, Benson and Player of the Year Scott May took a backseat to two lesser lights—Tom Abernethy and Bobby Wilkerson. Abernethy scored 14 points and shut down UCLA's Richard Washington and Wilkerson grabbed a career-high 19 rebounds. And Indiana won, 65-51.

While the Big Ten champions were disposing of tall and talented UCLA, Michigan was belaboring Rutgers. Indiana's Big Ten colleagues handed the Scarlet Knights their first defeat of the season after 31 victories, 86-70, and set up a unique NCAA finale. It was the first time in NCAA playoff history that two teams from the same conference met in the championship game.

"It'll probably be the last time in our liftime that we ever see something like this again," said Orr. "Take a good look at it."

Indiana's brightness didn't shine until after the Hoosiers were hit by adversity. Wilkerson, one of the few starting guards in the country at 6-foot-7, suffered a concussion in the early going and had to be carried from the court on a stretcher.

"When Bobby got hurt we knew we had to go at it tougher," said Bucker. "Bobby's a big part of our team. We did go at it."

Actually, the Hoosiers didn't really "go at it" until after the start of the second half. The Wolverines kept ahead of their Big Ten colleagues with a brilliant fast break and by intermission, led 35-29.

Benson, a blond giant with a pacifist temperament off the court and a killer instinct on, blamed his first-half timidity for the Hoosiers' uncharacteristic performance before intermission.

"I was a little tight in the first half," Benson said. "I knew I had to take the ball stronger to the hoop in the second half. It was just a matter of gathering myself."

Benson pulled himself together in the second half—and in the process, pulled Michigan apart. The All-American center took charge of things, scoring 15 of his 25 points and collecting six of his nine rebounds.

With the help of their tower of strength, the Hoosiers went from a 51-51 tie with 10:15 left to a 73-59 lead at the 3:51 mark. Indiana only had to run out the clock after that overpowering 22-8 burst.

May also had a high-powered second half for Indiana, scoring 18 of his game-high 26 points and pulling down all of his eight rebounds.

"Somebody had to help on the boards when Bobby Wilkerson got hurt," said May, "and that's what I had to do. At halftime we talked about keeping our game plan and outbustling them. That's what we did. No panic, we've been in that situation before."

"We just couldn't get the running game going in the second half," said Rickey Green, Michigan's high scorer with 18 points. "They were making their shots and we couldn't get the rebounds. We've got to get the rebounds to run. I think we ran pretty well in the first half and that was the difference."

Orr, who almost beat Indiana during the regular season, found the Hoosiers much stronger in their third meeting—in fact, downright indestructible in the second half.

"They played a great second half," noted Orr, bitterly disappointed. "I don't know what else we could have done."

The splendid season matched the 32-0 perfection of North Carolina in 1957, the best undefeated record in NCAA history.

"For two years, this (NCAA championship) has been our objective," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "Not just this year, but for two years these kids have worked hard—and no one knows how hard any better than I do."

New NFL teams draft today

NEW YORK (AP) — In the age-old tradition of every team that ever made a draft pick, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Seattle Seahawks selected "the best players available" as the National Football League stocked its 27th and 28th teams today.

Those availables may have included some familiar names made expendable by age, salary or a combination of the two.

League officials were on hand to supply pertinent information on factors such as salaries and bonus arrangements in the contracts of possible draft choices as the two teams began making their selections.

There were reports that such veterans as linebackers Lee Roy Jordan and Dave Edwards of Dallas, running back Essex Johnson of Cincinnati, offensive linemen Joe Scibelli and Charlie Cowan of Los Angeles, quarterback Len Dawson and former All-Pro receiver Otis Taylor of Kansas City, all longtime NFL performers, would be on the lists of players eligible for selection by the new teams.

But the draft carried a standard warning of caveat emptor— "let the buyer beware."

If Tampa Bay or Seattle chose a player coming off the injured reserve list who cannot perform or a veteran who chooses to retire instead of moving to a new team, they're stuck.

That's why officials of the two clubs sifted carefully through the draft lists supplied to them by the league at noon EST Monday. They had 21 hours to study the names before Seattle made the opening expansion selection at 9 a.m. EST today.

John Thompson, general manager of the Seattle club, said the Seahawks went into today's draft with a specific plan.

"We want the type of player we think can be with us for more than a year or two," he said. "But don't confuse that with age. He could be an older player with three or five years of service left."

Choosing first in the expansion draft could give the Seahawks a slight edger over Tampa. "That's if we never miss a beat in our judgment," said Thompson. "But life isn't quite that simple."

The draft rules under which Seattle and Tampa operated, however, were exceedingly simple.

The two new teams were to choose 39 players each, with each of the 26 established NFL teams losing three men in the draft.

It's third place for proud Bruins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Marques Johnson scored 30 points and triggered a game-breaking 15-8 burst midway through the second half to carry UCLA to a 106-92 victory over Rutgers Monday night in the third-place game of the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championships.

Johnson led the Bruins on their game-winning surge, scoring four points as UCLA bolted to a 90-83 lead with 6:41 to play. UCLA later outscored the Scarlet Knights 14-2 with Johnson getting another field goal to pull away to a 104-87 advantage with only 2:47 remaining.

Andre McCarter later put the icing on the victory for the Pacific-8 champions with a field goal in the closing seconds. t gave the guard his 26th point of the game and provided UCLA with a record-breaking point total. The Bruins' 106 points broke by one point the record for the most points for one team in a regulation consolation game—set by North Carolina against Louisville in 1972.

Led by All-American Phil Sellers and Mike Dabney, Rutgers had battled back from an 11-point deficit to take a one-point lead at 74-73 with 11:15 left. Then UCLA went ahead on Ray Townsend's field goal, but Dabney's free throw tied it at 75-75 with 10:39 left.

Ralph Drollinger added 12 points and Richard Washington 11 for UCLA, which closed out its season at 27-5. The Bruins also improved their overall NCAA playoff mark to 51-11.

Sellers led Rutgers with 23 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, while Dabney scored 21. Hollis Copeland has 18 points and 13 rebounds for the Scarlet Knights, who came into the final four unbeaten but lost their second straight game to finish at 31-2.

UCLA built a 53-42 lead late in the first half behind Johnson and McCarter but Rutgers trimmed three points off that advantage and closed to within 57-49 at the half.

Rutgers finally surpassed UCLA, scoring six consecutive points to grab their short-lived one-point lead before the Bruins broke it open.

Rutgers was ranked fourth nationally while UCLA was fifth.

UCLA stars to turn pro?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rich Washington and Marques Johnson, UCLA's star forwards, may have played their last college game Monday night as the Bruins walloped Rutgers 106-92 in the battle for third place in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championships.

While both denied that they had decided to file hardship petitions to permit pre-graduation draft by teams in the National Basketball Association, they did admit that they were considering such a possibility.

"Our options are open," the 6-foot-10½ Washington said in the UCLA dressing room at the Spectrum following the Rutgers game. "I think it would be stupid for me to ignore the hardship draft.

"I'm going to sit down with some knowledgeable people and figure out what is best for me."

Johnson also said no decision had yet been reached about applying for hardship for status.

"I really don't know," Johnson said, "I've got things to think about."

The 6-6 Johnson was high scorer in the consolation game with 30 points and also led in rebounds with 18. Washington finished with 11 points, but sat out nearly half the game when he got into early foul trouble.

Both are juniors and have one year of college eligibility remaining.

McQuaid selected for All-CIF honors

Mark McQuaid of Chaffey High has been named to the All-CIF 4-A basketball team by the Citizens Savings Athletic Board.

Johnny Nash and Michael Wiley, the two players who led long Beach Poly to a 30-1 season and the 4-A championship, have been selected Co-Players of the Year.

Wiley, a 6-foot-8 senior center, led the Moors in scoring with a 17.1 average to Nash's 15.2. Nash was the rebounding leader with 13.7 per game to Wiley's 11.3.

McQuaid, a 6-4 senior forward, averaged 20.4 points and 10 rebounds while leading Chaffey to a co-championship of the Citrus Belt League and the quarter-finals of the 4-A playoffs. He was named to the third team.

The all-time Chaffey single-season scoring leader with 531 points this year, McQuaid shot 53 per cent from the floor.

NL tries to block Toronto franchise

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The National League, unable to agree on expansion, has asked Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to block the American League from putting a new franchise in Toronto next season.

"We'd like him to hold off on American League expansion," said Chub Feeney, National League president, after a four-hour meeting Monday in which the 10 owners in favor of expansion failed to sway Cincinnati and Philadelphia, which are opposed. A unanimous vote is required.

"That's very interesting," said an American League spokesman when advised of the NL action, "but we have no further comment."

Unless Kuhn steps into the picture, the National League will remain at 12 teams in 1977 while the American League jumps to 14 with expansion franchises in Seattle and Toronto. Such a move apparently would leave Washington, D.C., out in the cold and might put baseball in hot water if certain members of Congress decide to press the point. Kuhn has been politicking for expansion to the nation's capital.

The AL, which needed only nine affirmative votes to expand, beat the NL to Toronto last week.

Messersmith gets Braves' best offer

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner has met again with former Dodger pitcher Andy Messersmith and apparently has made him the highest offer to play this season, a Braves spokesman said today.

"He met with Messersmith yesterday in Tampa during the National League meeting," said team spokesman Bob Hope.

Radio station WGST in Atlanta reported that Turner met secretly with Messersmith's agent, Herb Osmond, Sunday night and offered the former Dodger super star $1 million over five years.

Hope denied there was a secret meeting but said Turner is pursuing the issue.

"I think the figure is a little distorted—it's a little on the high side," Hope said of the reported figure. "The only thing indicated is that the Braves offer, according to Messersmith's agent, is the highest offer...and that's third-hand. I don't have the facts on it."

Dodgers option Cy Young winner

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have released a list of 28 players who are being dropped to the minor leagues or to other assignments as the National League club plans to close its Florida spring training base.

Among those on the list were pitcher Ron Bryant, who will remain at Vero Beach to get some added work. Also on the list is pinch-hitter Leron Lee, who may be sent to Tampico in the Mexican League.

Three more players will be cut before April 9.

Baseball coaches have a good week

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Last week was a productive one for the local college teams, as was attested to Monday at the weekly Progress Bulletin baseball luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Bill Arce's Claremont-Mudd nine won three straight Southern California Intercollegiat Athletic Association outings, Ben Hines' La Verne crew swept an important SCIAC doubleheader at Whittier and John Scolinos' Cal Poly Broncos captured four of six games on a rugged road trip.

In the junior college ranks, Art Mazmanian's Mt. San Antonio squad won three straight South Coast Conference contests, while Howard Lowder's Chaffey team triumphed in two of three Mission Conference tilts.

Honored Monday as the College Player of the Week was Norm Richards of C-M. Richards, a senior righthander, fired a no-hitter vs. Pomona-Pitzer last Saturday in a 11-1 Stag victory.

The JC balloting wound up in a tie, so MSAC's Kevin Chapman and Chaffey's Rick Munoz will reign as co-Players of the Week.

Chapman, a freshman from Workman High, hurled the Mounties to a 3-1 win over Grossmont last Saturday, allowing only five hits while fanning six and not walking a man. At one point in the contest he retired 21 straight Griffins. Munoz, a Redlands High product, pounded out seven hits in 17 at bats last week, including two home runs and four RBI. Amont his hits was a two-run single which beat Southwestern in the bottom of the ninth.

The High School Player of the Week award went to Don Pierce of Montclair. Pierce pitched two complete game wins for coach Tom McFadden's Cavaliers last week, blanking Damien 4-0 and downing Garey 6-5. He also hit a key three-run homer in the Garey game.

Pierce was presented a plaque by the Pomona Elks Lodge for his outstanding week.

Quoting the Coaches:

ARCE, Claremont-Mudd — "We had a good week all the way around. We bounced back to beat Whittier 12-4 on Tuesday and then swept two from Pomona-Pitzer.

"Jon Begerow had nine RBI on the week while Wynnsan Moore had seven hits in 10 at bats. Richards faced only 22 men in his (seven inning) no-hitter over Pomona-Pitzer. They scored their run on a walk, a stolen base and two ground outs.

"We are now entering what I feel is our most challenging part of the season. We have tough games coming up this week with UC Irvine on Wednesday and a double header at Occidental on Saturday. We play La Verne next week in the SCIAC, then we go over to Arizona to play Grand Canyon. I heard they were 22-6 at last report so that will be a tough series."

SCOLINOS, Cal Poly — "We had a good time in Hawaii, and won three of the five games played over there. One game was rained out. We beat their two best pitchers and should have won one of the games we lost except for our own errors.

"We beat USC down there on Tuesday prior to going to Hawaii. Bruce MacPherson pitched a great game against Rod Dedeaux's boys, it was the second time this year he had beaten them and that's quite an accomplishment.

"We open league play this week up at San Luis Obispo, they are a good ball club and we look for some tough games. Our league will really be a dogfight between SLO, Northridge, Riverside and us."

HINES, La Verne — "We split a doubleheader with Azusa Pacific last Wednesday and should have won both games but our offense didn't do the job. Fernie Tarin pitched well but lost 2-1, and Paul McGuire came back to beat 'em 3-2 in the second game.

"Saturday at Whittier, Jim Vallone shut them out on four hits, and Tim Kelly pitched two innings of relief ball in the nightcap and did extremely well. We turned two double plays in the seven-inning game, Pat Proulx is really doing a good job at turning the DP for us at second base.

"John Edwards and Tim Burzette came through for us at the plate, Edwards was four-for-eight in the doubleheader at Whittier while Burzette was seven-for-11 for the week.

"We play Whittier again Tuesday afternoon, and then play Cal State Fullerton that night at John Galvin Park in Ontario."

Ali causing 'official headaches'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If officials can't decide what a clinch is and how to handle things when a fighter is against the ropes, the announced Muhammad Ali-Antonio Inoki fight may never come off.

On the other hand, with in the neighborhood of $10 million at stake for the two principals, it figures that a few minor problems regarding rules won't stand in the way of the planned June 25 bout between the world heavyweight boxing champion and the undisputed king of Japanese wrestling.

Inoki, 33, came to Los Angeles Monday to display his form, but all newsmen saw — besides an impressive physique — was a film of the Brazilian-raised black belt karate expert grappling in traditional wrestling style.

The extravaganza, to be televised worldwide, is billed as the first World Martial Arts Championship. Ali, noted for placing derogatory names on his foes, has labeled the lantern-jawed Inoki "The Pelican."

One problem, acknowledged, a spokesman, "will be to determine what is a clinch, since most wrestlers do their best fighting in close, with their arms and legs." Inoki, a powerfully built 6-foot-4 and 245 pounds, said he would "grapple with Ali." That means the word clinch must be defined.

Sponsors of the match, Lincoln National Productions, Top Rank, Inc., and Video Techniques, Inc., hope one closed-circuit location, New York's Shea Stadium, will have a companion bout with either Jerry Quarry or Oscar Bonavena against wrestler Andre The Great.

Inoki did some deep knee bends, headstands and pushups to show his strength, but declined to shadow box or block a punch thrown by a spectator who climbed into the ring to help produce some movement for television cameras which were covering the news conference.

A translator, Ken Tajima, said Inoki was in excellent physical condition and the fighter, who boasts of besting former Olympic judo champion William Ruska of Holland, said "I am confidant of my stamina" to go all 15 three-minute rounds if needed.

The spokesman for the sponsors said Ali would wear four-ounce boxing gloves, by his request. Inoki will be bare-handed.

He said either fighter may use either style of fighting at any time. Should a fighter use wrestling tactics, he would need only a three-second pin to win the match, but if an opponent is floored by a boxing type punch, the referee would have to count to 10 for a knockout to be scored.

Sponsors say Ali is guaranteed $6.1 million and that Inoki could make as much as $4 million from television sales.

The film of Inoki showed him using the Inoki Special, in which he gets behind a foe, bear-hugs him around the midriff and throws him backward over his shoulder.

Sports briefs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has been chosen the 1975-76 National Basketball Association Player of the Year by the Sporting News.

It was the fourth time the Los Angeles Lakers' center has been so honored by the a vote of the league's players. The other times were 1970-71, 1971-72 and 1973-74.

Players also chose Alvan Adams, center of the Phoenix Suns, as the NBA Rookie of the Year.

Named to the first team were Rick Berry, Golden State; George McGinnis, Philadelphia; Kareen Abdul-Jabbar, Los Angeles; Nate Archibald, Kansas City and Phil Smith, Golden State.

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback John Hadl will be traded from the Green Bay Packers to the Houston Oilers, it was reported Monday.

Sports Editor Matt Mitchell of the El Cajon Californian said Hadl, a former resident of El Cajon, will go to the Oilers along with defensive back Ken Ellis for Houston backup quarterback Lynn Dickey.

PHILADELPHIA — Top-seeded Chris Evert defeated Cynthia Doerner 6-3, 6-1 to advance to the second round of the $75,000 Philadelphia Women's Tennis Tournament.

SAO PAULO, Brazil — Argentina's Guillermo Vilas beat Australian Kim Warwick 6-2, 6-4 in first-round action of a World Championship tennis tournament.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Catcher Jerry Keller hit a two-run home run in the top of the 10th inning Monday night to carry Eastern Michigan to a 6-4 intercollegiate baseball victory over the Southern California Trojans.

The Trojans fell to 14-14 with their fifth consecutive loss. The Hurons are now 7-6.

Keith homer helps ACA

A three-run home run by Jim Keith in the sixth inning powered American Christian Academy past Calvary Baptist, 7-1, Monday.

ACA's Rick Sherman fired a four-hitter, fanning 13 and walking two, to improve the Minutemen's record to 7-1 on the year, 4-0 in Christian League games.

Blaine Hammond of ACA had a double and triple in three tries.

Seven SAL entries in CIF swim finals

LOS ANGELES — Seven varsity entries from the San Antonio League have advanced to the finals of the CIF 3-A swim meet by finishing among the top six places in their events at Monday's prelims at East Los Angeles Community College.

Claremont's Jim Moore placed third in the 200-yard freestyle with a 1:45.7 and fourth in the 500 freestyle in 4:47.04.

Upland's David Oakes was third in the 100 breaststroke (1:02.6) and teammate Howard Hyde was fifth in the 100 backstroke (57.19).

Montclair's Mike Harbottle finished fourth in the 50 freestyle (22.05).

Claremont's 400 freestyle relay squad of Moore, Mike Martin, Steve Smith and Craig Hildebrand swam to second place in a quick 3:17.79 while Upland's Dallas Munroe, Hyde, Oakes and Doug De-Young combined for sixth in the 200 medley relay in 1:44.9.

All those competitors will compete in the finals to be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the ELACC pool.

Qualifying for the consolation round were Hyde (10th place in the 200 individual medley), Smith (12th in the 50 freestyle), Hildebrand (eighth in the 100 free), Harbottle (12th in the 100 free), Claremont's Paul Beasom (11th in the 100 backstroke) and Claremont's 10th-place 200 medley relay team.

No SAL members qualified for the finals in the frosh-soph division. Tops were Upland's Jim Etchason (seventh) and Steve Siffert (eighth) in the 200 freestyle.

Few changes in Pirates from '75 division winners

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates have hired the "stretch coach" of the Pittsburgh Steelers, added a former tight end to their pitching staff and lifted a ban on beards — like the ones common to this city's football favorites.

Who knows? Maybe the Pirates will devise a "Steel Curtain" to stop the running game of Cincinnati Reds if they meet again in the 1976 National League baseball playoffs.

The Pirates won their fifth NL East title in six seasons in 1975, only to be swept by the Reds in the playoffs, despite 14 strikeouts by rookie pitcher John Candelaria in the finale.

The Reds went on to the World Series; the Pirates began their winter wait, and one of them, Willie Stargell, spent a few hours of it shivering in line for Super Bowl tickets.

The Reds begin this year 0-1 against Pittsburgh — having lost to the Steelers in the Super Teams competition in Hawaii. The Pirates hope that signals a trend.

Paul Uram, the high school gymnastics coach who guides the Steelers in flexibility drills, is in the Pirates training camp.

It's part of a Pirate push for more basepath speed — the kind of Reds used to steal seemingly at will in last year's playoff.

The Pirates also had Maury Wills tutor some of their players in the off-season.

In a more significant move, General Manager Joe Brown dealt with the Yankees to obtain pitcher George "Doc" Medich, a 6-foot-5, 225-pounder who once played end for the University of Pittsburgh.

To get Medich, the Pirates gave young infielder Willie Randolph and two pitchers: Ken Brett, who's had trouble with his arm, and Dock Ellis, who's had troubles with Pirate Manager Murtaugh.

Good week for valley coaches

MAZMANIAN, MSAC — "Two of our pitchers, Bob Veselic and Kevin Chapman, pitched complete game wins last week and neither walked a man which is outstanding. Ron Roenicke pitched against Santa Ana and beat them 6-2 while striking out 11, so our pitching has been super.

"Both Tracy Cowger and Danny Gans are hitting over .400 in conference games, while our catcher Val Primante has had seven outstanding defensive efforts in our conference.

"We have two very tough conference games on the road this week, Tuesday at Cerritos and Saturday at Fullerton. But we are right in the thick of the conference race and teams are going to have to beat us at our place to bump us out."

LOWDER, Chaffey — "We had a frustrating week. We won on Tuesday in the bottom of the ninth, lost Thursday in the last of the 12th, and won Saturday in 14 innings in a game which took over five hours to play.

"We were going to red-shirt Larry Bell from Alta Loma High this year, but last week we used him in batting practice on Friday and put him into the game Saturday. Darned if he didn't pitch very well in relief and pick up the win.

"We're still shooting for a playoff spot in our conference. We're not hitting as well as we can but I still think our guys will come around. I also feel the schedule favors us over the course of the next few weeks. Citrus is 6-1 right now but I feel our conference is really strong. There's no easy money to be had by anyone, and if you expect it you're going to be in big trouble."

McFADDEN, Montclair — "Don Pierce is doing an excellent job for us. I'm experimenting by pitching him every day but so far it's worked out well. He's changed his style somewhat from a power pitcher and used only 71 and 73 pitches in the two games last week. At that rate he should be able to pitch all our league games.

"He's a real pleasure to coach, I'll be sorry to lose him next year. He likes to throw every day, I think a week layoff prior to pitching the Claremont game earlier this year hurt him. That's the only game he lost, so I guess I should use him more often!"

Knight relaxes just for a moment

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It was, to say the least, an unusual sight.

There was forward Scott May doing an impromptu boogaloo at the foul line. There was massive center Kent Benson, arms aloft, bouncing across the court. And most surprising, there was Indiana Coach Bobby Knigtt—sober, intense, down-to-earth Bobby Knight—dancing along the sidelines in his lucky red-checked sports jacket, grinning like a schoolgirl.

The Hoosiers were enjoying the last few seconds of their 86-68 victory over Michigan in the finals of the NCAA Basketball Tournament. Indiana, with 32 victories in 32 outings, had won the national title. And Bobby Knight, the outspoken, controversial "enfant terrible" of college coaching, had reached the pinnacle of his profession.

"I think it's the goal of any coach to reach the NCAA Tournament," said Knight after the game. "It's almost beyond the realm of comprehension to think you can win it.

"It's just hard to accept right now. Maybe it will come to me in a day or two that we've won the whole thing. Right now, I'm not sure how I feel."

Bobby Knight, Ohio-State class of 1962, has had an unmatched record of success as a player and coach. He played on the Buckeyes' national championship team in 1960 and their Big Ten title teams the next two years. He took over as head coach at Army in 1966 at the age of 24 and won 102 games while losing only 50 over six seasons with Cadet teams that most coaches considered breathers on their schedules.

In five years at Indiana he has gone 17-8, 22-6, 23-5, 31-1 and 32-0. He has turned the Hoosiers into a precision unit that plays defense with tireless energy and plays offense with patience and remarkable poise.

"There's no big secret to this game," he said. "You guys always try to make it so complicated. The team that wins is the one that does what it does best most consistently.

"We know what we do best and we stick with it. We win because we play harder than the other guys."

Knight spent much of a postgame news conference Monday night thanking other coaches— high school, college, football, retired, all kinds of coaches— for his success. He quotes people like Clair Bee, Bud Wilkinson, Fred Taylor and Pete Newell like they were Old Testament prophets.

"I think of all those people who have helped me through the years and who wanted us to win this thing. I was thinking about them before the game and I'm glad we won for them."

Knight has one goal. It is to get his team to play as close as possible to it's potential. Anything that contributes to that goal is good. Anything that doesn't is bad.

He has stepped on several toes en route to the top. He argued with the NCAA when he thought its rules were wrong. He battled with officials over injustices, real or imagined, to his team. And he has lashed out at reporters from time to time for a variety of reasons.

He works his players hard and he works himself harder. He is only 35 and flecks of grey already show in his black hair. He looked pale and drawn all week. He has put himself in a pressure business and overcome the pressure to produce a winner.

"I'd feel as much pressure if I coached at Maine A&T," he said. "I just like to see my team play well, dammit. If we lose, the hell with it, that's okay. If we win, that's great. But I just want to see us play well.

"I wish Bud Wilkinson was coaching my team instead of me. He'd probably do better. He told me it doesn't matter how tall, how fast, how talented your opponent is because you don't play against your opponent. The whole essence of athletics is to play against your potential.

Gordien mark broken

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — Steve Brown of Fullerton Junior College cracked the national junior college record in the discus Sunday with a toss of 194 feet 10 inches.

Competing at the Meet of Champions at the University of California at Irvine, Brown urpassed the old mark of 192-3 set earlier in the year by Marcus Gordien of Mt. San Antonio College. Gordien is the son of former Olympic discus thrower Fortune Gordien.

At the same meet, Eric Hulst of Laguna Beach High School ran 10,000 meters in 28 minutes 54.8 seconds to crack the old national prep record of 29:06.8 set by Oregon junior Steve McChesney earlier in the year.

En route, Hulst, a senior, ran six miles in 27:58.9, breaking McChensey's other national mark of 8:09.4.

BATTING PRACTICE — Boston Red Sox outfielder Jim Rice takes a cut at spring training camp in Winter Haven, Fla. Rice spiked himself fielding a fly later in day — apparently not seriously.

Everyone gunning for Bosox this year

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — As the defending American League champion, the Boston Red Sox figures to be the hunted rather than the hunter as the favorite to repeat in the East Division.

"Everyone will be gunning for us, but it's kind of nice to be chased instead of doing the chasing," Manager Darrell Johnson said with cautious optimism.

Just a year ago, the Red Sox were picked to finish no better than third, behind the Baltimore Orioles and the New York Yankees. They surprised everyone by holding off Baltimore, sweeping Oakland three straight in the championship playoffs and then taking Cincinnati down to the wire in the World Series.

"We became a good solid ball club last year, and we're even better this year," Johnson said. "For one thing, we'll have Carlton Fisk from the start. Then we helped ourselves by getting Ferguson Jenkins, a seven-time 20-game winner, and a left-handed reliever, Tom House."

Johnson shies away from predicting another pennant. However, he says: "If I were a fan, I probably would think we'd win again."

After fighting on virtually even terms with Cincinnati before bowing to the Reds in the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series last October, the Red Sox are loaded with confidence.

"Barring injuries, there's no reason we shouldn't do it again," says captain Carl Yastrzemski as he prepares for his 16th season in Boston.

The Red Sox are loaded with talent at just about every position, with the only possible weakness being a capable backup shortstop for Rick Burleson.

Fisk, plagued by injuries during his career, is in top shape and being counted upon to play 135 or 140 games. He appeared in only 79 games last season, but hit .331 with 10 homers and 52 runs batted in.

Yastrzemski is set at first with Cecil Cooper or Deron Johnson ready to give him a rest when needed. Veterans Doug Griffin and Denny Doyle, acquired from California last June, probably will share the second base job. Rico Petrocelli is set at third and Burleson at short.

The Red Sox boast one of the top outfields in baseball. Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, who combined for more than 200 RBI as rookies, could be even better. And Dwight Evans is on the brink of stardom. Bernie Carbo and Rick Miller are looking for more work.

Jenkins and House join a proven pitching staff. Jenkins will be in a starting rotation with Luis Tiant, Rick Wise and Bill Lee. Reggie Cleveland and Dick Pole are counted upon for both starting and relief duty.

Jim Willoughby, acquired last July, will be No. 1 right - handed reliever. Southpaw Jim Burton will help House in the left-handed relief department. Rookies Don Aase and Mark Bomback are trying to win jobs.

Red Sox at a Glance

1975 Finish—First in American League East and AL champion.

Strengths—Solid all-around team at bat and in the field. Good hitting, good defense and experienced pitching. Catcher Carlton Fisk healthy and ready to start the season.

Weaknesses—Lack of a backup shortstop for Rick Burleson and second-line relief pitchers behind Tom House and Jim Willoughby.

New Faces—Seven-time 20-game winner Ferguson Jenkins, acquired from Texas, and House, a left-handed reliever obtained from Atlanta.

1976 Forecast—First again.

All Pirates do is keep winning

Medich gives the Pirates a righty starter to go with lefties Jim Rooker, Candelaria and Jerry Reuss, 18-11 last year.

That was the only major deal Brown made, though he had serious talks with some teams about centerfielder Al Oliver.

Yet while they'll be mainly the same players, the Pirates will have a new look.

In the Bicentennial spirit, they'll wear striped caps with a squared look similar to those of the 1880s.

"They're giving me back the cap I started with," says Murtaugh, whose son Tim will manage the Pirates' top farm club this season.

Murtaugh has also lifted his ban on beards, and at least three Pirates are sporting them in training camp — Dave Parker, Stargell and pitcher Bob Moose.

Nonetheless, third baseman Richie Hebner got a mandatory cut — 20 per cent of his pay.

Hebner, an established hitter who slipped to .246 last year, was a holdout past March 9, allowing General Manager Brown to invoke the "renewal" clause in his contract.

Under that clause, the holdout plays one season for at least 80 per cent of his pay from the previous year. The next season he becomes a free agent. Brown said he gave Hebner the maximum 20 per cent reduction, which would lop $13,000 from his reported salary of $65,000.

Pirates At A Glance

1975 finish — Won National League East title for fifth time in six seasons.

Strengths — Usual array of big bats, led by Dave Parker. Addition of George Medich to an already strong line of starting pitchers, anchored by left-hander Jerry Reuss.

Weaknesses — Lack of speed on the basepaths. Team pinch-hitting average of .214 last season. Defensive lapses by Richie Hebner at third base and Richie Zisk in left, though Zisk was playing the position for first full season after being moved from right, where he was solid defensively.

New faces — Medich, utility outfielder-catcher Ed Ott, utility infielder Tommy Helms.

USC's Kemp is cut by Detroit Tigers

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Eight Tigers — including baseball's No. 1 draft choice this year, Steve Kemp — were cut from Detroit's spring training camp squad Monday.

Ordered to report to Tigertown, Detroit's minor league base near the training camp, were outfielders Kemp and Dan Gonzales, catcher Bob Adams, and pitcher Steve Trella — all roster players — plus non-roster players Jason Thompson, a first baseman, and pitchers Julio Alonso, Dave Rozema and Bob Sykes.

The move is effective Tuesday. Several of the players participated in Monday night's exhibition doubleheader against the Chicago White Sox.

Kemp wasn't expected to stick but since he signed a major league contract Detroit was required to put him on its 40-man spring roster.

Of the group, second-year pro Thompson has made the biggest impression. Manager Ralph Houk and the coaching staff have been impressed with his keen batting eye, power and fielding ability.

When you eat corn-on-the-cob or fluffy popcorn, you are eating Indian corn. Indian corn is any of the several kinds of common corn grown originally in America by the Indians.

No one in Europe knew about Indian corn before Columbus arrived in the New World in 1492. Friendly Indians brought corn to the Pilgrims and showed them how to plant it.

"Maize" was the Indian name for the grain. Since the word "corn" meant any kind of grain to the English-speaking colonists, they called the New World grain "Indian corn" to distinguish it from Old World grains — wheat, rye, oats, and barley.

Today, we simply say "corn" when speaking of Indian corn, or maize. The Indians grew all the main types of corn that are raised today.

The corn we eat is usually sweet corn, flour corn, and popcorn.

Corn known as "field corn" is usually fed to livestock. Indian corn with colored kernels is often used for decoration at Thanksgiving.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Sears Home Appliance BUYS

See The New "Dual-Action" on The Lady Kenmore Washer

When it comes to large loads, most agitators can't move clothes around enough to get them all uniformly clean! The clothes on the bottom get plenty of agitation. But the clothes at the top receive less washing action than those at the bottom. But this revolutionary "Dual Action" agitator does more than slosh the clothes at the top back and forth! It's unique double-action design forces clothes on top down into the washing action to get the entire large wash load uniformly clean! In lab tests with 15 lb. AHAM test loads, the "Dual Action" agitator showed 58% more uniformity in cleaning than last year's Lady Kenmore agitator, the Penta Swirl!

Introducing a new senior citizen plan!

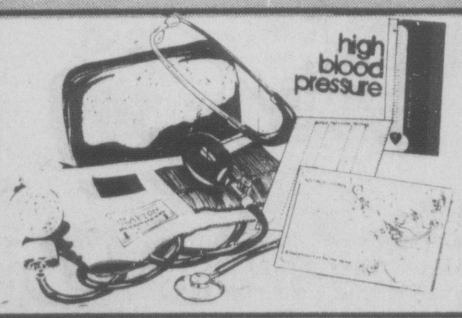

the 10% discount prescription plan...

If you are 60 or over (or will be 60 this year), you qualify for a 10% discount on all your personal prescriptions, in addition to our everyday low prices.
Here's why—Our senior citizen discount prescription plan brings extra savings to a growing number of respected citizens in the 60 and over age group, many of whom are on limited incomes and require more medication.
Your Senior Citizen Discount card for 10% will be honored at all Value Fair Pharmacies and Hy-Lo Drug stores only.
HERE'S WHAT YOU DO—To receive a 10% discount whenever you fill or refill a prescription, simply fill in the reverse side of this form and present it to your Hy-Lo or Value Fair Pharmacist. Your application will be processed immediately so that your discount privilege will not be delayed.

(1) When applying for a 10% discount on prescriptions, the name on the prescription will correspond to the name on my Discount Card.
(2) I will not use my discount privileges for my family or my friends.
(3) I will not ask for a discount without presenting my Discount Card.
(4) I will immediately report loss of my Discount Card and submit application for a replacement card marked duplicate at the top.

WHY...You should know your blood pressure!

1. High blood pressure (hypertension) is the major cause of death in the U.S. today through heart attack, stroke, and kidney failure.
2. High blood pressure is difficult to detect because the disease often has no characteristic symptoms.
3. Statistics show high blood pressure can be a very real factor in reducing life expectancy. High blood pressure kills!
4. A single blood pressure reading may not tell the whole story. Blood pressure may vary from time to time, sometimes rising and sometimes falling.
5. Only your doctor can provide effective treatment for high blood pressure. Visit your doctor regularly, and seek his advice.
6. Many doctors now recommend hypertensive patients monitor their own blood pressure at home.
